HIS LONG CAREER ENDED.

DEATH OF THE HON. JOHN YAR-YAN, OF RICHMOND, IND.

His Age Ninety-Two-His Professional nd Political Career - Rosina Vokes Dies in London-Other Deaths.

[Special to the Indianapolis News.] RICHMOND, January 29.—The Hon. John aryan died at 3 p. m. on Saturday. He ad been in feeble health for several aonths, but he was at his office on Thurslay last. On Friday he complained of ling badly, and he soon after became un-nscious. The burial will occur to-morrow, 2 p. m. Services will be held in St. Paul's (Episcopal) church.

A Long and Honorable Career. Of the many pioneers who helped to make Indiana a great State, none was more nteresting than Mr. Yaryan. At the last session of the General Assembly he commanded much attention as the Senator from Wayne county, not only because he was then regarded as the oldest legislator in the world, but because of his vigorous thinking, his forcible utterances and his resources as a debater. Notwithstanding his advanced age, he was but slightly stooped, his step was quick and nervous. his senses acute, his nerve but slightly stooped, his step was quick and nervous, his senses acute, his nerve strong and his mind bright and retentive. His face was but slightly wrinkled, his 'eatures were even and plump, and there was no sign of a physical breaking down. Indiana at that time had a double distinction in having not only the oldest legislator in the world, but the youngest, the Senator rom Warren and Fountain being barely within the constitutional requirement.

Mr. Yaryan was pre-eminently a pioneer, or the came to Indiana before the birth of thate. He was a native of Blount county, Exceptly, where he was born in November, 1802. His ather was strongly anti-slavery in his political convictions, and Kentucky was violently ro-elavery. A virtual ostracism influenced im to seek a home elsewhere, and in 1816 the mior Yaryan established himself in what was been the wilderness of Wayne county. The ounty was then very large, extending to the northern line of the State, and after years, when the subdivision was made, as Yaryan far lily found itself apportioned to him county days were very meager, but young aryan was taught at a little country school, aught by an uncle of the late Gen. Tom lennett, and when but twenty-one years old e began teaching himself.

MIS EARLY CAREER. He was largely self-educated, but so well had he applied himself that he attracted the atten-tion of Prof. Samuel Bigger, afterward Gov-ernor of Indiana, who gave him a position in the Liberty Seminary. Within a short time he retired to accept mercantile service under Judge Burnside, and when Burnside was elected county clerk 'Aryan became his deputy. It was then that he began turning his attention to law and politics. He was elected a justice of the peace before he was admitted to the bar, for he began studying law in 1831, and h was not received as a practicing attorney until 1838. One year later he was the law partner of Caleb Smith, who afterward became a member of Lincoln's Cabinet, and this relationship continued until 1830.

Meanwhile Mr. Yarvan was advancing to the front in local politics, and in 1847 he was elected to the lower House of the General Assembly. During that session he was conspicuous in effecting a settlement of the State with creditors of a claim growing out of internal improvements, more particularly on account of the Wabash & Erie canal, for which $12,000,000 in bonds had been issued. Mr. Yarvan took the position that the State must keep faith with its creditors, and a repudiation of its bonds. as advocated by some, was not constitutional. He had the satis action in later years in seeing this position sustained by the Supreme Court. He was also the author of a bill at this session which marked a radical departure from old English customs, and gave to married women the right to hold property in their own names and to devise wills. This bill he lought to a successful passage of a both Houses and it became a law, and throughout his long life it was one special thing in his legislative career in which he always took great pride. That same session of the Legislature also marked the passage of a local option bill, which remained in force until the adoption of the new constitution in 1851.

HIS PIRST TIME AS SENATOR.

The year 1857 found Mr. Yaryan in the State Senate, and he was conspicaous in the great struggle which sent Bright and Fitch to the United States Senate: Bright being afterward expelled for treason. Before his term expired Mr. Yaryan removed to Richmond, which ever afterward continued his home, and he was succeeded in the Senate by Gen. Tom. Bennett, who had been a law student in his office. During Grant's presidency Mr. Yaryan was assessor of internal revenue, and it was his son, Homer T. Yaryan, who was chief of the revenue service during Grant's second term, and who discovered and exposed the whisky ring. For many months Homer T. Yaryan's name was prominently before the public. At one time his retention in office was made an issue by Secretary Bristow, who threatened to resign it the order removing Yaryan was not revoked. Bristow was a candidate for the presidency, and Grant, not wishing to promote his chances, suffered Yaryan to continue. It was always Senator Yaryan's belief that Bristow should not have interfered in Homer's removal, but should promptly have tendered his own resignation, in which case, he said, not even Grant could have prevented Bristow's nomination by the Cincinnati convention.

In 1877 Mr. Yaryan was again returned to

In 1877 Mr. Yaryan was again returned to the Lower House of the Indiana General Assembly, this time from Wayne county, and in 1891 he was elected to the Senate by the largest Republican majority ever cast in that county.

saloying a rest earned by a long and busy life.

PROM ADAMS TO HARBISON.

It was his pride that he had voted for eighteen presidential candidates. He began with John Quincy Adams in 1828, casting a second hallot for him in 1828. He voted for Henry Clay in 1882, and for "Tippecance" Harrison in 1836-40. Again in 1844 he cast a ballot for Clay, and in 1848 he voted for Taylor; in 1832 for Scott, and in 1856 for Fremont, the Free Soil candidate. Then in regular succession followed Lincoln, Grent, Hayes, Garfield and Blaine, and, of course, General Harrison in 1858 and 1852. Clay was his idol; so much so that Mr. Yaryan remarked that after Clay's death he believed he would have voted for the executor of his estate.

Mr. Yaryan was twice married. His first wire died years ago. His second wife survives him.

Death of the Popular Actress in London
-Her Career and Attainments. LONDON, January 29.—Miss Rosina Vokes, of the famous Vokes family, is dead.

The death of Miss Rosina Vokes will not surprise those who had opportunities to know the circumstances which caused her to leave the stage a few months ago. When she started ton her last tour of this country, last fall, her health was considerably impaired, and in a few weeks she was compelled to quit playing for a time. After a brief rest she once to the Supreme Court.

took it up again, struggling bravely against the ravages of quick consumption, but was soon unable to continue her tour, and her company disbanded. It was then announced that, while she was compelled to cease acting, her condition was not such as to cause serious apprehension. A few people, however, knew that she would never be well again. She sailed for London in November, intending to go thence to the milder climate of southern Europe.

ROSINA VOKES.

It has been more than twenty years since the Vokes family first gave New Yorkers a surprise in a class of entertainment, original in character, Rosina Vokes, a brother and sister, with several other people, forming the company, and appearing in a musical sketch of larce-comedy style now so common, "The Belles of the Kitchen," in which were introduced dancing and stage business that were a startling departure from the methods of that day. That was in the year 1872. Besides "Belles of the Kitchen," the other plays were "Fun in a Fog" and "The Wrong Man in the Right Place." Of the original Vokes family, Victoria alone remains. Jessie died ten years ago, and Fred about four years ago. It has now been nine years since Rosina began her starring tours in this country, in which she established herself as a theatrical favorite.

Miss Vokes was vivacious in manner, an original dancer, and, in her peculiar way, an actress of unusual merit. She had not such personal beauty as to warrant the ecstatic peans of praise sung in her behalf by some critics. Nevertheless she was a charming little woman, capable of forming correct and original conceptions of her roles, and possessing the dramatic ability to portray these conceptions in an effective manner. In her peculiar life she was Mrs. Ceell Clay, her husband, to whom she was much devoted, being an English gentleman, who not only managed her business affairs, but also wrote several of her plays. She was a high-minded woman, held in high regard by all who knew her, who established herself professionally by her unusual cleverness. as she did socially by ner kindness of heart, her intellectual powers and purity of character.

Miss Vokes was born in London in 1854. She made her debut at the age of six months, as the baby in "Mr. and Mrs. Peter White." She retired from the stage when she married Mr. Ceoil Clay in 1877, but returned to it some years later. One of Miss Rosina's brothers, Fred Vokes, married Bella Moore, daughter of "Pony" Moore, the minstrel manager, and Tather-in-law of Charles Mitchell, the defeated nursilist.

NEW YORK, January 29.—A dispatch to the Staats Zeitung from Cincinnati says that private dispatches from Saxony an-nounce the death of the explorer, Frederick August Loewe, at the age of sixtyeight years, a man whose name is well known on both hemispheres.

At the age of twenty-four Loewe came to Cincinnati, but could not get a foothold. He traversed the Southern States, the Bahmas, Cuba, Jamalca, and then visited South America, where he traveled across Brazil, visited Bolivia, Chili, Peru and other South American republics. He also visited the gold fields of California and explored Alaskas. In 1868 he returned to Germany, where he devoted himself to writing books of travel. He was a thorough linguist and master of two Indian languages.

SECRETARY SMITH AND SENATOR VOORHEES ON GOOD TERMS.

Senator Turple Is Hustling For Offices-The Nude In Art-The Tariff Debate-John L. Ingram's Sudden Death.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.1]
WASHINGTON, D. C., January 29.—Senator Voorhees and Secretary Hoke Smith are trying to "get together," in conformance with the injunction of that great patriarch of Democracy, Editor Dana. The Senator visited the Interior Department for the first time in many months last Saturday. Strange to say he went alone. He spent twenty minutes chatting with the Secretary of the Interior about the pension agency, and came out smiling. Appointment Clerk Holcombe, who comes from Valparaiso, Ind., has been trying to bring about a treaty of peace between the Senator and the Secretary for a long time, and he has given out the tip to some of his friends here that his plan has finally succeeded. The trouble between them originated in the latter's failure to act promptly on some recommendations for office made by the Indiana man. The breach was widened by the Secreary's pension policy, which the Senator de-clared was dragging the Democratic party in Indiana to ruin and destroying his chief stock in trade. When the Secretary finally refused to appoint "Charlie" Voorhees, the Senator's son, on an Indian commission in the State of Washington, the chasm suddenly become so wide between the admirts. denly became so wide between the adminis-tration's Secretary of the Interior and its putative leader in the Upper House, that old politicians gravely shook their heads and declared it would never be bridged. Political gossipers carried news back and the Senate until Senator Voorhees began talking so loudly against Secretary Smith that the latter was constrained to write a letter to the Senator and explain that he had been misrepresented. write a letter to the Senator and explain that he had been misrepresented.

This was the first step in the direction of peace. Other friendly overtures have been extended and accepted by both sides to the controversy, until finally Secretary Smith began making a few appointments on Senator Voorhees's recommendation again. The consummation of the treaty of peacewas reached a few days ago when Martin Van Buren Spencer, of Ft. Wayne, asked the Senator to go the Interior Department and indorse him for pension agent. Senator Voorhees made bold to go, and has declared since that he profited by the visit.

JOHN L. INGRAM'S SUDDEN CALL A Jeffersonville Man Who Dropped Dead in Jason Brown's Rooms.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.] WASHINGTON, D. C., January 29.—A coroner's inquest was held late this afteroon on the death of John L. Ingram, of Jeffersonville, Ind., who dropped dead yes terday afternoon in Congressman Jason Brown's room at the Riggs House. No verdict has yet been returned in the case, but there is not much doubt that it will be found that Ingram died from heart disease, due to unnecessary heart disease, due to unnecessary anxiety and excitement over delay in securing an official promotion. He was a one-thousand two-hundred-dollar clerk in the first auditor's office and was entitled to be promoted to $1,400 a year. There was a hitch in his promotion which greatly worried him. An order was made out Saturday afternoon directing his promotion, which would have been made to-day. to-day.

Ingram was a civil service clerk and has been in the Treasury Departmentsince 1875. He came to Washington first with ex-Speaker Kerr. He had been circuit clerk at Jeffersonville and had a local reputation politics. He was an intimate friend Congressman Brown, and District Attorof Congressman Brown, and District Attorney Frank Burke. The latter at one time considered the advisability of appointing Ingram assistant district attorney. He read law under ex-President Harrison. Ingram was forty-five years old, and unmarried. His delatives were telegraphed yesterday of his death. His body will be sent to Jeffersonville to-night for burial. Congressman Brown had not yet recovered this morning from the shock of having a guest drop dead in his room. "Ingram was guest drop dead in his room. "Ingram was seated in a chair, reading a paper," said Mr. Brown. "I had my back to him, attending to some correspondence. I noticed, shortly after 4 o'clock, that he was breathing heavily, but thought that perhaps he had gone to sleep. Soon after I heard him fall, or perhaps slide, from his chair, and I spoke to him. He did not answer. I got up and weat to his side, spoke to him again and found that he was dead."

THE FIGURE WILL BE DRAPED. Secretary Cariisle Will Have Change Made In the World's Fair Medals.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 29.-The World's Fair has introduced at least one innovation in this country. It has brought the artistic tastes of some of our America connoisseurs up to a point delicately near the French school. Witness the unseemly wrangle which the World's Fair authorities are now having over the medal which St Gaudens has designed for the successful exhibitors. The figure which ornaments the medal is a nude male, and while St. Gaudens and Chairman Thatcher declare that it is the perfection of art, and it seems to be popular with the foreign exhibitors, it has shocked the prize winners from the rural exhibitors, it prize winners from the rural districts. Secretary Carlisle has de-termined that the figure shall be draped. St. Gaudens declares that it shall not be, and Chairman Thatcher is using his per-suasive eloquence to preserve St. Gaudens's "young man on the medal" in all his artistic

"young man on the medal" in all his artistic and aboriginal splendor.

The law provides that these medals and diplomas shall be subject to the approval or the Secretary of the Treasury, and it looks very much as if Secretary Carlisle would have his way. Already there has been about two weeks' delay in the preparation of the medals on account of this controversy. The medals will probably be ready for exhibitors about April 1. for exhibitors about April 1.

SENATOR TURPLE DOING SOMETHING Making a Vigorous Effort To Get Offices For "Kicking" Indiana Democrats. [Special to The Indianapolis News.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 29 .- Sens tor Turpie has been making life miserable for the Postmaster-General for the last few weeks. The Indiana Democrats have been writing saucy letters to the junior Senator, and are demanding in stentorian tones to know what they are in Indiana for, if not for the offices. The impression has gone abroad in the Hoosier State that Senator Turpie hasn't a pull on the official patronage. Under the great stress of the Democratic importunities from his State, the Senator has been makfrom his State, the Senator has been macing frequent trips to the Postoffice Department, and one of the leading officials there says that he is the greatest senatorial kicker for postoffices in the whole "dignified branch of Congress." Senator Voorhees, who, a few months ago, was sweeping the cobwebs out of the department coordiors in search of of the department corridors in search of spoils is now, according to a rumor, deeply engrossed in weightier cares of state. His time is spent almost entirely in his com-mittee room preparing himself for the tariff bill which will shortly come up in the Sen-ste.

Tariff Debate To Close Thursday. WASHINGTON, D. C., January 29 .- The tariff debate will close in the House next Thursday at 3 o'clock, when, according to the amended special order, the vote will be taken on the pending amendments and the final passage of the bill.

The debate this week will relate entirely to the internal revenue, which the Demo-cratic caucus decided to place upon the tariff bill as a rider. To-day and Tuesday will be devoted to general debate and Wednesday to debate under the fiveminute rule, when the internal revenue features will be open to amendment.

That Injunction Proceeding. WASHINGTON, January 29.-Arguments were to-day heard before Judge Cox of the District Supreme Court on the application of Grand Master Workman Soverign and T. B. Judge Cox reserved his decision and announced that to-morrow or Wednesday he would state his conclusion in the case. An Indiana Man Promoted.

NEW YORK, January 29 .- Mrs. Zella Nicolaus, whom Superintendent Byrnes called "a crafty adventuress," and who flashed across the metropolitan horizon a tew weeks ago as plaintiff in a suit to wring $40,000 from George Gould, is in New York again in spite of her supposed promise to remain abroad indefinitely.

Their carriage was hotly chased up town by reporters in a pursuing cab, who found out that they went to Abe Hummel's house, where they had a long conference. They were registered on the La Bourgogne as "E. T. Moore and wife."

The passengers on the steamer say that the woman and Ruhman have quarreled and will separate. Late last night Mrs. Nicolaus, or what-ever her name may be, was seen in one of the hallways of the Hotel Imperial, and when questioned said that her suit against Gould would not be dropped. THE RIOTING COAL MINERS.

NO BLOOD SHED TO-DAY, BUT SERIOUS TROUBLE IS FEARED.

Hundreds of Deputies Sworn and Many Arrests Made-The Foreigners Are Troublesome and Defiant At Woodville, Pa.

PITTSBURG, January 29.- The striking niners in the Mansfield coal district seem totally cowed by the disastrous attack upon the Beadling mines, and the presence of a couple hundred of deputy sheriffs in the district, for peace prevailed in the district all Sunday and last night. At Bridgeville intense alarm still prevailed last night, and a vigilance committee of the citizens assisted the deputy sheriffs in patrolling assisted the deputy sheriffs in patrolling the streets. They had several alarms, but they proved groundless. Rumors of all kinds are still flying. The woods, ac cording to reports of frightened farmers, are supposed to be full of bands of Slavonic and Belgian miners awaiting opportunity to rush from their hiding retreats upon unwary deputy sheriffs, put the latter to rout and then continue their destruction of coal tipples. These succession of alarms kept the deputy sheriffs awake last night from Mansfield to the upper end of Tom's Run. Sheriff Richards, who has been at Mansfield receiving reports, returned to Pittsfield receiving reports, returned to Pitts-burg for a brief time this morning. He says he does not believe any further consays he does not believe any further concerted attempts at property destruction will be made by the strikers. They seem to have lost heart over their defeat at the Beadling mines. There is much fear though that some miners will surreptitiously attempt the destruction of property, as from the testimony of Steppick, the dead noter, there is no doubt that a society of foreign miners had been formed for the purpose of destroying property.

A large mass meeting of strikers is now being held near Mansfield, and the sheriff and people are watching it closely. What they fear is that after adjournment the strikers may make another attack. If today passes in peace, the trouble for the present is perhaps at an end.

TROUBLE FEARED AT WOODVILLE. The Strikers Are Defiant There-Many

Arrests Make by the Officers, WOODVILLE, Pa., January 29.—The Armstrong Coal Company's works are an object for attack by the miners. At an early hour a notice was posted by some unknown person that if the men now working in the mines did not cease at once they would be driven off, the tipples burned and the mules killed. The Armstrongs, upon receipt of this, at once took away all the mules not necessary for the absolute working of the mine, and then notified Sheriff Richards, who was at Mansfield with a force of deputies. He at once went to the mines. Arriving at the station he found a large crowd of men congregated. He or-dered the deputies; to patrol in front of the works. They did so, exhibiting white badges. This show of force alarmed the badges. This show of force alarmed the men, and they got on trains or marched over the hills toward Mansfield. The men in the mine have been armed and swear they will defend the tipple to the last. Deputy Taylor has just returned from Foster's mine. He reports that this morning a number of strikers gathered around the works and made the darkest threats. One man who spoke English quite well, said: "So long as there is any one working, so long will this place be in danger. You fellows had better leave here soon."

Thirty deputies went over to Tom's Run this morning and arrested fifteen Slavs. They were taken to Mansfield. The men had congregated around the upper mines for two days, and last night built bonfires. They were drinking and made many threats. The deputy sheriffs tried to quell them by their presence, but the miners were defiant. This morning Sheriff Richards sent an ceeded in arresting fifteen of the strikers. stones, but as they were not otherwise riot stones, but as they were not otherwise riot-ous, no reply was made to them. A large crowd of strikers are on the streets of Mansfield. They seem to be without lead-ers and walk about in an uncertain man-ner. The sight of the deputy sner-iffs' caused the most intense hatred, and were it not for the fact that the latter are armed, they would stand but little show. Quite a large number of miners from the Monongahela region are flocking here. They are mingling with the strikers, marching from pit to pit, trying to induce men to commit acts of violence. The leaders in the attack at Shulte's tipple were all strangers. Deputy Sheriff A. L. Green, returning from Bower Hill, reports that an Englishspeaking miner, who understanis the Sla vonic language, overheard a number of the latter in close consultation. He drew nearer, and learned that there was a plot to hoist a red flag this afternoon and declare for blood. There were about fitteen Slavs in the group, and they seemed terribly wrought up, denouncing the coal operators in the most unmeasured terms.

"I instructed the man," continued Deputy Shoriff Groon "it version to the most upon the state of t

Sheriff Green, "to return to the men and warn them that if they searched for blood they would find it." Additional deputies will be sent to Bower Hill to disperse any meeting. Thirty-two rioters have been captured and are now in the Mansfield jail.

MANSFIELD, Pa., January 29,—Sheriff Richards went to Bridgeville this morning and will attend to the starting of the mines there. Most of the men who were driven out by the mob on Saturday have returned to, work, and about fifty foreigners are watching them. Deputy Sheriffs Foster and Slattery went out to Tom's Run branch with forty assistants to make arrests. They have nineteen informations sworn out before 'Squire Jeans, of Mansfield. Reports from Jeans, of Mansfield, Reports from W. J. Steen's mines are to the effect that the men have returned to work in a body. So far all the mines on the Tom's Run branch are idle, with no indications that the men will return to work soon. A meeting of miners will be held at Junction No. 2 to-day. It is being kept a profound secret, and every endeavor is made to prevent alike the deputies and operators from securing information of it. A significant fact about the meeting is that it has not been called by any responsible leader among the miners, and will be controlled by the more radical element. There has been no disorder of any kind in the valley, and the shiff deputies helieve the trouble and the chief deputies believe the trouble HETTY GREEN IN BROOKLYN.

A Woman With $60,000,000 Living In a Cheap Boarding House.

NEW YORK, January 29.—Hetty Green, whose fortune is estimated at $60,000,000 oc cupies a hall bedroom in Mrs. A. E. Bonta's boarding-house at Pierrepont and Henry streets, Brooklyn. She is miserly and suspicious, and is constantly haunted by a dread of begging letters, newspaper men, cranks and men with schemes who want to invest her money, and she is all the time in terror of robbers and anarchists. At the bottom of her dislike of notoriety, and very probably one of the main reasons for her mysterious way of living, is her fear of being robbed or being threatened. She has no home of her own, and has not had for country will learn with surprise that she has a husband. He is Edward H. Green, and can be found any evening and afternoon at the Union Club, Fifth avenue and Twentieth street. He is a very large and tall man, and chews tobacco constantly. He has not been, in active business for many years, and his life is as prosaic as possible. He had a tortune once and lost it in speculation, and Mrs. Green makes him an allowance from her own enormous wealth. When she married there was an antenuptial agreement by the terms of which Mr. and Mrs. Green were never to have any interest in one another's estates.

Hetty Green has a daughter of marriageable age. Miss Sylvia Howland Green is a tall, rather plain-leatured woman of twenty-eight years, who has a fortune of $5,000,000 in her own right, besides being a prospective sharer together with her brother in her mother's vast estate. Miss Green wears glasses and is inclined to be melancholy. She is living now with Miss Annie Leary, at 90 Fifth avenue.

Mrs. Green is fifty-eight years old. She has money enough to take up a nation's issue of bonds. She dresses like a deserving scrub-woman and lives in cheap boarding-houses. Her present residence is in a fashionable neighborhood on Brooklyn Hights, but her bedroom is only nine feet square. Her father, Edward Mott Robinson, a tight-fisted New England whaling merchant, and the mother of Mrs. Bonta, who keeps the house on Pierrepont street, were second cousins, and this is one of the reasons why the woman of wealth and the boarding-house keeper are able to get along together.

Mrs. Green has been here for about a month. She came without warning, and she will depart without warning, probably. Mrs. Bonta has learned never to be surprised at anything her guest does. Mrs. Green has boarded at her house several times before. It is a four-story, old-fashioned house on the corner of Henry street. There is a small yard in the rear, with high board fence and a gate opening on the side street. There are five rooms on each floor, and the prices run from $12 down to $7. The lowest priced room in the house is the hall bedroom on the third floor, and this is Mrs. Green's, RETURNED AFTER MANY YEARS. He Found His Wife Remarried and Made His Son His Heir.

HARRODSBURG, Ky., January 29 .- Thirtyone years ago General Buel and General Bragg fought the battle of Perryville, near what is now known as Beechview. In the Union army was John Watson, a member of the Tenth Kentucky, who lived at Beechview. The day before the fight John Wat-son received leave of absence for two days, while he visited his wife and children, and remained with his family while the army marched on. The next morning when the booming of cannon resounded like distant thunder, Walson bade his wife and little two-year-old daughter a hasty, but affectionate, farewell and started for the scene of

The Tenth Regiment was in the hottest of the fight, and John Watson joined his company as they were moving in. Night closed the conflict. The next day the Confederates were allowed to move off, and through Harrodsburg to Tennessee General Buell followed on. No more was heard of John Watson.

Watson.
Three years passed, and despite the most thorough investigation nothing could be learned about Watson's fate. In 1865 Mrs. Watson married again. She had two children by her first husband—a girl named Lizzie, who died at the age of sixteen, and a son born a few weeks after its father disappeared. There were no children by the second marriage, which was an unusually happy one.

Stopping at the only hotel he made inquiry about John Watson. Young Watson was sent for and presented to the stranger. The old gentleman remarked, "You are too young; my old friend John Watson was a soldier in the battle of Perryville, and the best friend I ever had." Mr. Watson replied that he was speaking of his father, whom he, himself, had never seen. Young John told the stranger how his mother had waited three years to be additional force with handcuffs. The next day the stranger left, telling the landlord that he was on his way to Cincinnati. He left a package for the son of his old friend. The next day John Watson received the package, and, to his amazement, he found it contained $500. The young man was then convinced that the old gentleman was then convinced that the old gentleman was his long-lost inther, and decided to find the man, but he could not get even a clew.

Last week he received a letter from a lawyer in Florida informing him that John yer in Florida informing him that John Watson had died, leaving $11,000 and a small orange orchard to his son, John Watson, Jr., of Beechview, Washington county, Kentucky. Mr. Watson started to-day with evidence of his right to the little fortune. Nothing as yet has transpired to give any cause for the desertion by the father of his wife, who was and is one of the best women in the county.

AN ABDUCTION CASE. Wilkesbarre (Pa.) Excited Over Eddie Brotherston's Disappearance.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., January 29.—There seems but little reason to doubt that Eddie Brotherston, the ten-year-old boy who dis-appeared from his home in Ashley ten days ago, was kidnaped, and that he has either been murdered or is being held for ransom. The whole community is at fever heat over The whole community is at fever heat over the case, and is showing in many ways its sympathy for the half-crazed parents of the missing boy. A large sum of money has been raised by the friends of Mr. Brotherston, to be devoted to the payment of detectives who will prosecute the search, and yesterday the neighbors turned out en masse and scoured the mountain side above Ashley in an unsuccessful effort to find some trace of the lad.

All the searchers returned last night

All the searchers returned last night weary and footsore after having dragged every bond and ransacked every book and corner in the vicinity in which it was possi ble that the body might have been cealed. Detectives have been sent in a dozen different directions to run down rumors that the boy had been seen in com-pany with his abductors. The Town of Kutschan, Persia, Annihilated By an Earthquake.

SAN FRANCISCO, January 29.—Additional advices by the steamer Belgic, from China, announce the complete annihilation by an earthquake of the town of Kutschan, Persia. Twelve thousand people were killed in the awful disaster. Ten thousand bodies had been recovered to date. The once important and beautiful city of 20,000 people is now only a scene of death, desolation and terror. Fifty thousand cattle were destroyed at the same time.

THE COLFAX SETTLEMENT.

RECEIVER HAWKINS AUTHORIZED TO ACCEPT $95,000 CASH.

Concerning Her Affairs Sale Glue Company Property-Additional Claims Proved

Receiver Hawkins, of the Indianapolis National Bank, has been authorized by Jadge Baker, of the United States Court, to allow Ellen W. Colfax, widow of the late Vice-President Colfax, and Schuyler Colfax, her son, to settle with the hank for $25,000 cash. Mrs. Colfax owned $14,500 worth of stock in the bank, and Schuyler Colfax $12,500. The Colfax Manufacturing Company was indebted to the bank in the sum of $5,580, and Mr. Colfax's personal in-debtedness to the bank was $206.10, making the total indebtedness to the bank $33,086.10. The attorneys for Mrs. Colfax and her son, in a communication to the receiver, said that Mrs. Colfax and son had no resources from which to raise the necessary money to pay the indebtedness except the property described in a schedule submitted to the receiver. It was suggested that it would be impossible to raise the $35,096.10 from this property on a forced sale, when the incumbrances on the property and the condition for the title to the real estate were taken into consideration. The communication further stated that an old personal friend of the late Schuyler Colfax had proposed to furnish Mrs. Colfax and her son $25,000 in cash, if thereby they could settle the indebtedness to the bank; that this personal friend had consented to make the loan on loag time and take a second mortgage upon the property, thus could settle the indebtedness to the bank; that this personal friend had consented to make the loan on loag time and take, a second mortgage upon the property, thus enabling Mrs. Colfax and her son to hold the property until a better time may come to dispose of it, and work out the indebtedness, so as to save, if possible, some portion of it for Mrs. Colfax, more particularly her home in South Bend; that this was the utmost that Mrs. Colfax could do. Accompanying the communication was a schedule of the property owned by Mrs. Colfax and son. It is stated that the interest of Schuyler Colfax, Jr., in all the property described is incumbered by a trust, arising under the will of the late Schuyler Colfax, according to the provisions of which Theodore P. Hau, hey was appointed trustee and authorized to manage and have full authority to dispose of all the estate given to Schuyler Colfax, Jr., until he should arrive at the age of twenty-one. It was stipulated that when Mr. Colfax, Jr., arrived at the age of twenty-one he was to be entitled to one-third of the estate. The remaining two-thirds of the estate was to remain in the care of Theodore P. Haughey until Mr. Colfax should arrive at the age of twenty the last specthird was to be paid to him. On his arrival at the age of thirty the last specthird was to be paid to him. On his arrival at the age of thirty the last specthird was to be paid to him. On his arrival at the age of thirty the last specthird was to be paid to him. The specifical specifical specifical and the attorneys say that they doubt whether any of the property of Mr. Colfax could be taken on execution during the continuance of the trust, excepting the ose-third which has already been paid over to him. The communication containing the schedule says that since the failure of the Indianapolis National Bank, Theodore P. Haughey has resigned his trust and bas been succeeded by George W. Matthews, of South Bend.

The proposition made by Mrs. Colfax and son was forwarded to the Controller of the Controller wo Bright's Disease the Cause-His Career In Indiana Politics and at the Bar-In Congress For Six Years.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.]

TACOMA, Wash., January 29 .- The Hon. William H. Calkins, formerly of Indiana, died here to-day of Bright's disease. Judge Colkins had been sick for a long time. Two weeks ago, his daughter, who was on her wedding tour in Europe, was summoned home by cable, and reached here

Mr. Calkins in his public career was an Indiana man. He was born in Ohio, in April, 1847, but removed to Indiana before he was ion years old and settled in the prairies of Benton county in 1851. There he herded cattle until he was eighteen years old. Having a longing for a larger sphere of activity, he went to Lafayette and entered school. He had made progress in the pursuit of knowledge when the was broke out. He enlisted in 1851 and was in many of the great battles in 1851 and was in many of the great battles in 1851 and was in many of the great battles in 1851 and was in many of the great battles in 1851 and was in many of the great battles in 1851 and was in many of the great battles in 1851 and was in many of the great battles in 1851 and was in many of the great battles in 1851 and was taken a prisoner at Shiloh. He was sent to Libby prison from which he was released by exchange. Returning to Indiana he was made a major and entered the cavalry service. His feld of operations was exiensive, including the campaign against Mobile. At the conclusion of the war he returned to Indiana and read law. He first appeared in public lifefrom Porter county for which he was elected prosecutor. He was afterward sent to the Legislature from the same county. He moved his home to Laporte, and in 1874 he was elected to Congress from the Laporte district. He served that district for five terms continuously. His politics, rise had been rapid, and his name was known and honored by Republicans througheant the State. At the end of ten years of congressional service he was nominated for Governor by his barty. He was defeated for the office by isaar F. Gray. IN THE COURTS.

Allegations In the Buchanan Divarce Suit-Court News.

A suit for divorce prepared by Lewis C. Walker will be filed in the Superior Court a few days, in which Mrs. Ida E. Buchanan, wife of Dr. A. E. Buchanan, dentist, will be the plaintiff. Dr. and Mrs. Buchanan were married January 20, 1886, and have one child, three years old. Mrs. Buchanan is a daughter of W. H. Roll. The seremony was performed at Meridian-street rhurch by the Rev. J. E. Gilbert, assisted by the Rev. Reuben Jeffreys.

The clouds began to gather over the domestic relations of Mr. and Mrs. Buchanau about a year ago. The complaint will allege many acts of crueity during that time, but the chief of which occurred Saturday, January 20. For three years Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan lived with Mr. Roll's family, and then went to housekeeping. Soon after, Dr. Buchanan built a house on Pennsylvania street, above Seventh street, and they lived there until January 20. That Pennsylvania street, above Seventh street, and they lived there until January 20. That day was the eighth anniversary of their wedding, and Dr. Buchanan, the complaint will allege, on that night took his wife to the theater. After the performanc. Dr. Buchanan took her to lunch. It was close to midnight when they reached home. Dr. Buchanan asked his wife to slight and told her the nurse would let her in a sade door while he went to the stable with the horse. She stepped from the carriage and went to the side door. As she entered she was astonished to find her baby clinging to the nurse and both in tears. The nurse explained that during the absence of Dr. Buchanan and his wife movers had taken away two wagon-loads of furniture, leaving the house almost naked and leaving only a bed for the distressed wife. The nurse told Mrs. Buchanan that a letter had been left addressed to her. It was from Dr. Buchanan, and announced that he had decided that a separation was necessary, and that this determination could be considered final. Mrs. Buchanan notified her father, and since then there has been no communication between husband and wife, although Mrs. Buchanan remains at the hoose. The complaint will probably make other charges, but the one set forth will be the principal one.

Dr. Buchanan was seen at his office to-day and asked for a statement about the case. He said: "This is a subject on which I do He said: "This is a subject on which I do not care to talk much. Others are talking now and I prefer to let them continue. This separation is no sudden impulse, but has been a seven years' fight. My last effort was when I built my own home. A year ago I decided that if conditions did not change during that period I would take the course I have taken. My family has not been treated right by my wife and her relatives. Further than that I do not care to talk."

Dr. Buchanan is about thirty years old He has property in North Pennsylvania street, Talbott avenue and on the West Side. The complaint will ask alimony and the custody of the child.

For Possession of Pig Iron.

H. E. Southwell, who owns $100,000 of the bonds of the Premier Steel Company, this morning filed an intervening petition in the Premier receivrship ease in the Circuit Court asking for an order of the court giving him possession of 1,000 tons of Bessemer pig iron which he alleges he has stored in the Premier Company's property and for which he holds a storage receipt. He alleges that the receiver has refused to give him posse sion without an order of court. Bessemer pig iron is now quoted at $10.50 a ton, but Demand Against Shaffer For Salary. Jessie DeVore has filed suit in Justice Johnson's court against Peter Shaffer (alleged to be an employment agent), to recover $10 salary for two weeks' work. Jay was also served with a notice not to dispose of the furniture in

The Arrest of Walters.

John Walters, proprietor of a saloon at 223 West Washington street, was arrested yesterday morning by a squad of police. The officers suspected that a gambling game was in progress, and went into the saloon. Walters attacked two of them with a billiard cue, and it was not until a pistol was displayed that he would surrender, and go to the police station. He was charged with assault and battery, and the case against him this morning was continued.

Police Court Cases. William Dailey, for-assault and battery upon his wife, was fined $20 and costs and ntenced to ninety days in the work-house. Ida Armstrong, a young woman who so successfully acted the "ghost" in the west part of town, was arrested again last night on the charge of vagrancy. She was fined $10 and costs and went to the work-house. The woman was arrested some days ago, and agreed to leave the city and return to her home at Vincennes. The Shaffer-Mason Commission Case, It is expected that Judge Baker, of the Inited States Court, will, in a short time, ass upon the questions involved in the controversy between J. C. Shaffer and A. L. Mason over the commission that was paid by Verner and McKee at the time they purchased the Citizens' Street Railroad Com-pany. The last of the depositions was taken Saturday,

HISTORIANS AND PUGILISM.

Uncle Tom's Cabin" Given By Fighters-What Parson Davies Says.

Peter Jackson, "Parson" Davies and Joe Choynski, pugilists and promoters of pugilism, are at the Grand Hotel. They are the central attractions of the company which will play a version of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at English's the first three nights of the week. Jackson is the colored heavyweight who, three years ago, fought a battle of sixty-one rounds with Corbett, which ended in a draw. Since then he has been regarded as a formidable opponent of the holder of with regarded the championship, and interest in sporting circles has, attached to him since it was made public that he and Corbett had made an agreement to fight this year between June 20 and 30. Jackson is six feet one inch tall in his stocking feet, is one-half inch less than Corbett. He is also nearly of equal weight with the champion. Between them is said to exist a friendliness not usually found between rivals in pugilism. Choyaski (pronounced Ko-in-ski), has no engagement now, but "Parson" Davies says he is willing to make one with Fitzsimmons at catchweights if the Australian will come to anything like "decent" terms. "I don't see, any way," said the Parson, "why American sporting clubs are holding such great inducements to foreign fighters. This big an agreement to fight this year between any way," said the Parson, "why American sporting clubs are holding such great inducements to foreign fighters. This big country is full of good men in that line, and ought not to borrow from Australia."

"Do you think," was asked of "the Parson," "the recent agitation against prizeighting and prize-fighters will have a tendency to destroy pugilism?

"I thinb," replied the Parson, "that the number of small prize-fights between men of no ability in scientific boxing with the incidental face-pounding, broken noses and blood-stains, together with a low-down following, have done much to produce the extreme agitation that is now stirred up. Jackson and Corbett and fellows like those are not prize-fighters. Their business is exhibiting scientific skill in boxing. They are not sneaking away to barns and secret places and having bloody mills. They try to give decent exhibitions of skill and prowess and, I believe, do give them.

"I see it stated that Governor Matthews has said that Corbett and Jackson can not the particular and secret them."

I see it stated that Governor Matthews has said that Corbett and Jackson can not fight at Roby. I don't think they will either (although they would like to), but we have an offer from Tacoma of $40,000 as a purse for the match in that city, and I believe there is no law there against such contests. There is also an offer, of which I have heard but have not received, from the Santa Catalina Cub. near Los Angeles Santa Catalina Club, near Los Angeles, which, I understand, wants the fight. Santa Catalina is an islaud, which, I believe, is a sort of a Monte Carlo of the West. The National Club, of London, also has arranged to offer a purse for the fight."

Postmaster Thompson says he hopes to be able to announce Thursday that the receipts of the office for January were in excess of the amount received during the correspond-ing month last year. MAYOR DENNY HOME AGAIN

HE TALKS BRIEFLY OF THE AS-PHALT INVESTIGATION.

Concerning Three-Cent Fares - The Civil-Service Agitation-The City Bonds-Action By the Board of Public Works.

Mayor Denny returned home from New York and Washington last night. He looks considerably fatigued and as if some sleep would not be disagreeable. Asked for the result of the asphalt investigation, Mr. Denny replied:

"It will be several days yet before I am able to reach any definite conclusion as a number of documents that I expect, have not yet reached me. I asked the engineer at Washington a number of ques-tions which were taken down in shorthand. These he has not yet answered. Until I hear from him I can not give any conclusions. Generally speaking, I was investigating the price of asphalt. I do not hear the quality of work done here questioned. It is the price that the property-owners are objecting to, and I am inclined to believe, in some instances they are instified. But objecting to, and I am inclined to believe, in some instances, they are justified. But whether or not it will be remedied this year is a question. I do not know that there is any one here who would want to go to the expense of putting in a plant right away and without a plant nothing can be done. Deposits of asphalt have been found at Burmedas, in the remulting of Venezuela and this is said to be public of Venezuela, and this is said to be as good as the pitch lake. That question is also under consideration."

"It was reported here that H. C. Adams, of the Warren-Scharf Company, and S. K. Shearer, of the Western Paving and Supply Company, assisted you in the investiga

'I did not see Mr. Shearer while I was in Washington, and consequently had no talk with him. Mr. Adams was a delegate to the national convention of the Board of Trade, and so far as I know he said nothing about paving matters. I know he took no part in any conferences I had."

ABOUT THREE-CENT FARES. "During your absence, Mr. Denny, it was asserted that you intended to modify the City railway franchise so as to require a three-cent fare."

"I said when the matter of a franchise was up that the city should pay more attention to the question of cheap fares than to requiring the company to pay sums of money directly into the treasury. I thought so at the time, and I still think so, but nothing can be done until the matters are settled in the courts. There is no chance to do anything until the courts settles all the questions involved. If court settles all the questions involved. If the franchise is a valid one there never will be any chance to change it. The contract awarded is the city's contract, and it can not be changed unless the courts so decide." WILL NOT TALK CIVIL SERVICE. The Mayor was asked if he had heard of the civil service agitation that has been going on since he has been out of the city.

"I know nothing about it except what I have learned since I came home, and I am not well informed."

"What do you think about it?"
"Until I give the matter more investigatien and learn the exact condition of things I have nothing to say."

ABOUT THE CITY BONDS. "I arrived in New York, and in the presence of a representative of Harris & Co., signed the city bonds," said the mayor. "The firm surrendered $101,500 held by it and gave a check for $8,000, which makes the total amount. The old bonds, drawing 7 3-10 per cent. interest, are canceled, and in their stead are 4 per cent, bonds. The old $621,000 in bonds that were not refunded have been canceled and

"Do you anticipate any trouble refunding the $600,000?" Not the slightest. I believe the city will get a 4 per cent. sale with a good-sized premium. The bonds will be dated March 1."

BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS.

The decided stand taken by the Board of Public Works resulted in few of the "kickers" coming to the session this morning, and those who did come were very mild. A. Metzger wanted a new lease for the police headquarters stable, and was in conference with the board on the subject this afternoon. Councilman Stein urged the board to insist that all electric wires be placed ander ground before streets were paved.
The board awarded contracts as follows:

NEED OF MOUNTED POLICE. Superintendent Powell Gives Mr. Conner

An Object Lesson.

Superintendent Powell demonstrated to Police Commissioner Conner yesterday afternoon the need of mounted policemen. Mr. Conner was riding with the superindent when the latter caught sight of a man that the police had been after for some time. Whipping up his horse, he gave chase through alleys and over railroad tracks with the horse on the dead run and the buggy part of the time in the air and the rest running on one wheel. The pursued man darted down an alley too narrow for the buggy and made his essape. for the buggy and made his escape.
"Mr. Conner," said the Superintendent,
"if we had mounted policemen here that man would have been captured, but you see we could not drive a buggy down that alley."

"Yes, and I am very glad to see that you
"Yes, and I am very glad to see that you

"I es, and I am very glad to see that you did not attempt to drive over the tops of the houses to get at him," responded Mr. Conner, as he began to rearrange his clothing and pull his neektie around from the back of his neck. "The department does need mounted policemen, and I shall do everything in my power to see that they are appointed." Against Civil Service.

A committee from the Fourteenth Ward Lincoln League, with J. F. Buchanan as chairman, called on Mayor Denny at noon, ead a protest against the adoption of the civil service rules, and asked that the resolutions be placed before the cabinet as a protest from the club against the adoption of the rules. The Mayor said he would do as requested. He explained that he, while he was Mayor, would enforce all laws; that the charter was explicit on the point that the city should be governed under civil service regulations, and that while he would be sorry to disagree with any of his friends he would be compelled to live up to the provisions of the charter.

Vehicle Licenses Issued. Controller Trusler has issued 5,500 vehicle icenses since the ordinance went into effect. Bicycle owners are paying their dollars freely. The Council will be asked to extend the time of the penalty on the license until March 1. As the ordinance now stands licenses not taken out by February 1 will cost double what they do now.

THE JACKSON-CORBETT FIGHT. California People Want the June Battle, and Offer Induce

Los Angeles, Cal., January 29 (By car rier pigeon from Avalon, Catalina island) .-Leading citizens have subscribed $5,000 for the purpose of getting Corbett and Jackson to meet here next June. This sum is to be supplementary to the $35,000 offered by the Santa Catalina Athletic Club of Los Angeles. A petition will be circulated for signatures all over the State in view of the determination of Corbett to withdraw from the ring after his next contest, requesting him to fight his final battle in his native State. The School Board's Loan. School Board's finance committee opened bids Saturday night for a tem-porary loan of $170,000, with which to re-place a similar loan. Fletcher's Bank offered the money at 5 per and tendered a premium of The Merchants' National Bank 3% per cent. straight and got the loan.

The School Board has been paying the Merchants' National 8 per cent. on this money, borrowed during last fall's scare in the A Murphy League Entertainment. An entertainment will be given at the ngement and Decorations of the Hall-Center and Corner Booths-Articles On Exhibit and On Sale-Lunch To Be Served.

The decorators were busy this morning in Tomlinson Hall, getting it ready for the Food Exposition that will open to-morrow for the benefit of the Girls' Industrial School. Banners and floats were hung; the galleries were draped in red and white, and booth for the sale of various articles were erected In the center of the hall a large hexagonal booth was built. This will contain the com tributionsof manufacturers and wholesal dealers all over the country. On one side will be canned goods; another section will contain seeds and bulbs; the next will have household utensils, such as Christy knives, egg cups. mats, stove lifters, etc.; another cottolene, lard and sausage meat; another cereals, and the last space will be used for soap and toilet articles. In the four corners of the hall booths were fitted up. One will be a bullion booth, where the various extracts of meat, given where the various extracts of meat, given by several companies, will be dispensed at 5 cents a cup. In another corner will be a chocolate booth, where the merits of the different brands of cocoa and chocolate may be tested. In a corner near the stage will be a candy booth, in which the candy that is sold will be made by the teachers of the school from sugar given by local mer-chants. The last booth will be the apron booth and will contain the handiwork of chants. The last booth will be the apron booth, and will contain the handiwork of the teachers in the school.

Along the east side of the hall, under the gallery, will be ranged a long line of tables, at which lunch will be served, beginning at 11 o'clock to-morrow morning. One hundred persons can be served at once. The teachers of the school will wait upon the dred persons can be served at once. The teachers of the school will wait upon the guests. The bill of fare that has been provided is choice and varied. There will be several kinds of home-made bread, scalloped systers, cold ham, mince pie made by the teachers from gifts of mince meat, and flour, coffee and chocolate. The twentyfive-cent tickets that have been sold entitle the holder to lunch, The tickets are also good for articles that are on the exhibition booth. Packages that are worth over 10 cents are for sale for cash only, but packages of the value of 5 or 10 cents can be purchased with the coupons that compose the twenty-five-cent ticket.

This morning the teachers of the school were busy in putting up various articles in packages with the for sale. There is a wast packages suitable for sale. There is a vast variety of merchandise. There are dozens of sacks of flour, cases of packages of Rolled Avena. "Vegetole" in tins of different sizes, Gladiolus bulbs in huge boxes, bottles of perfume, cases of shoe blacking, boxes of egg-cups, sacks of coffee, cases of baking-powder, dozens of bottles of catsup, soup in cans, extract of meat, oat-meal, buckwheat and cereals of every description. Everythis thing was put up in small packages ready to sell. A consignment of cigars were received this morning at the hall. They are said to be of the kind of which three are usually sold for a quarter. After lunch they may be bought for 5 cents apiece. The managers of the school say that they did not feel that they could afford to hire music for the exposition, but the use of a piano having heen given, they have se-cured enough volunteers to insure some music during the day. In the evening the Bald-headed Glee Club has volunteered to furnish some music.

The school now has over seven hundred pupils, a number of whom will be present at the Exposition through the kindness of their teachers, who have bought tickets for them. There are 115 teachers and the work of the school can go on unimpeded if the exposition prove to be a financial success.

Mrs. Danforth Brown will sing at the hall to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

HANNAHAN'S LABORERS

Demanded Their Money and Made a Demonstration-They Got It.

Some of the members of the Teamsters' and Shovelers' Union have complained that the rank and file of the association are not able to get work on contracts taken by the officers and ex-officers of the association.

able to get work on contracts taken by the officers and ex-officers of the association. One colored man was before the Board of Public Works urging the board not to give these contractors any more work. He said that they paid only 10 cents an hour for labor and took all the profit to themselves; that the contractors were in the habit of paying off in saloons, and that the saloon-keeper was benefited thereby. He had special reference to E. R. Hannahan, secretary of the Teamsters' and Shovelers' Union, who, with Phil Hoff bauer, ex-president, is in the contract business.

Hannahan secured part of the work on the Elm-street sewer from the contractor, H. W. Mansfield. Saturday night 115 of the men gathered around about his house, 43 Elm street, and demanded their pay. Hannahan's explanation is that he had paid the men except for a little overtime, which he had not been able to figure up in time, He had also deducted from their wages certain bills for which he became security, and in some instances the fees due the organization by the members. The crowd became so demonstrative that at Hannahan's request a squad of police was sent to his house, and its appearance settled what for the time being gave evidence of becoming a riot. Hannahan asked permission of Superintendent Powell to carry a revolver to defend himself, but was told that the Superintendent had no authority to grant any such permission.

Yesterday afternoon Hannahan met the men at the hall of the union and explained that he would pay them this morning all that was due them. This was satisfactory, and this morning he paid the men without any further demonstration. Two or three policemen were present, but their services were not needed.

Caring For Unemployed at Cincinnati. CINCINNATI, January 29 .- William Dickman, an unemployed workman, created an excitement in the city hall to-day in front of the mayor's office by angry threats to get even with the mayor by the use of dynamite. He had presented a ticket to the mayor and asked for employment. The mayor refused because the ticket was not properly signed. Thereupon. Dickman became abusive and the mayor ordered his ejectment. Orders were issued for Dickman's arrest. Three hundred and seventy men were given employment by the city under arrangements recently made for that purpose.

VERNER AND M'KEE. Their Presence In the City Saturday Evening Revived Old Rumo

messra. Verner and sickee, of the Citizens' Street Railroad Company, were in the city again Saturday evening. Their presence again gave rise to, the report that the City Railway Company was about to buy out the Citizens' company.

President Mason, of the Citizens' company and to do that there was no ground. President Mason, of the Citizens' company, said to-day that there was no ground for the story. "There have never been any negotiations between the City Railway Company and the Citizens' Street Railroad Company. There is absolutely no foundation whatever for these stories that are continually started by some persons."

Mr. Mason says that Messrs, Verner and McKes were here on routine business connected with the management of the road.

A Subscription From Switzerland. Louis Hollweg, treasurer of the relief committee, to-day received a letter from John Fashr (owner of the Spencer House), from Zurich, Switzerland, where he is now living. The letter incloses an order for $50 for the relief of the needy. The relief committee is receiving new subscriptions occasionally, but the total amount has not been greatly increased. The second installment of subscriptions is now coming in. Says Tipton Is Having a Boom. James M. Fippen, of Tipton, member of the last Legislature from Tipton county, was here to-day. "Tipton is having a boom," said he. "While other cities have been complaining of hard times, we have been going right ahead as though nothing were wrong." Mr. Fippen expects to repre-sent his county again in the next Legis-lature.

Labor Leader—A great success—glorious!
The men all got their old places at the old wages, and I've been elected for another term.

Rheumatism.

I have been afflicted with rheumatism since I was fourteen years old. For long periods confined to my bed with pains so severe that I could not bear to be tonched. I have had many of our best doctors, and tried everything recommended, but found no relief. My whole life has been made miserable by fhis horrible disease. Now I am fifty-seven years old and I am sound and well. Can dance and caper like a young man. Cured by two bottles of Perry's Magic Rheumatism cure.

McLAUGHLIN-Waiter, son of William R, and Maggie McLaughlin, died Sunday, January 28, at 5 a.m., age eighteen years, eleven months, four days. Funeral services at house in Southport, Ind., Wednesday, at 10 a.m. Friends invited.

"I shine in the light of God,
His likeness stamps my brow;
Through the shadows of death my feet have trod,
And I reign in giory now;
No breaking heart is here,
No keen and theiling mate.

No breaking heart is here.

No keen and thrilling pain,

No wasted cheek, where the frequent tear

Hath polled and left its stain.

Then why should your tears roll down
And your hearts with grief be riven

For another gem in the savior's crown,

And another soul in heaven?"

MADDEN-Mis. Mary, wife of Michael Madden, Monday morning, 11 o'clock, at residence, No. 235 E. Louisiana st. Funeral from St. Patrick's church, Wednesday morning. Friends invited.

DEVINE-Mrs. Ann, died Sunday, 11 p. m. Will be builed Wednesday, 9 a. m., from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Lavery, 134 8. Noble st. Friends of the family invited.

Mrs. Conrad Hill, formerly Miss Laura Renner, of Whitestown, Ind., died in this city on Saturday night, after a lingering liness of nearly four years. The deceased was about thirty years of age and leaves two little children, Claude and Hazel, who will find a home for the potent with Mr. Hill's parents, at North Indianapolis. Mrs. Hill was connected with the Lutheran church at Whitestown and her lovely Christian character had endeared ber to many friends, both there and elsewhere. Although her stay in this city had been of short duration, she had made a number of friends, and her sister, Miss Letta Renner, takes this opportunity of expending to them her thanks and those of the bereaved husband and his family for their many expressions of regard and sympathy tendered to Mrs. Hill during her last illness. THE INCOME TAX. We think that the Democrats of the House are acting very unwisely in insisting that the income tax shall be tied to the Wilson bill. It is not necessary to charge that there is a secret purpose to defeat the new tariff-though such a suspicion would not be an unnatural one-but it certainly may be said that the income tax people are betraying a disconsequences so reckless as to indicate a willingness to postpone indefinitely the day of tariff reform. We know that many earnest and honest tariff reformers are earnestly and honestly in favor of an income tax. But suppose they can not get it? And suppose, further, that in their ill-advised attempts to reach that result they make it impossible to remove any of the tax burdens which now rest upon the shoulders of the American people? What answer will they make to their outraged constituents? Do they for a moment imagine that they will escape punishment?

The question then, as it presents itself to us, is not whether or not we shall have an income tax, but whether or not the Wilson bill will go through the Senate. The Republicans understand the situation. They are opposed to the income tax on principle, so they will not vote for it, but they know that it will prove a serious, if not an insurmountable obstacle in the pathway of tariff so they refuse to help the Democrats beat it, but sit silent in their seats while their adversaries are putting the rope about their own necks. Is there nothing suggestive in this? The Republicans will vote against they will not vote against the proposition to saddle the income tax upon the tariff bill. They know, as every one else knows -or should know-that the Wilson bill will have a hard road to travel through the Senate. That body is full of attorneys of protected interests, and of stockholders in industries which have many favors to ask of the Government. The men who live on taxes understand this, and they are even now marshalling their hosts for an assault upon the Senate. The wool men, the iron men, the coal men and the ore men will make the fight of their lives. And they will find many sympathizers in the Senateand this will be especially true if the bill contains a tax upon senatorial incomes. If there were any question of principle involved, the case would be different. But there is no such question at stake, or rather, if there is, the principle is against the proposed tax. It can only be defended on the ground of necessity, and there is no nucessity for it. As we have many times pointed out there is a revenue of $40,000,000 a year in sugar which it is foolish to throw away. McKinley threw it away because it was a revenue tax and one which is easily collectible without hurting the consumer or helping the trust. This duty should be reimposed. It is a revenue duty, as almost all of it goes—where it should go—into the Treasury. The people have a right to expect that a party which professes to believe in a tariff for revenue only will take advantage of every opportunity to put their creed into practice. The Democrats are then logically and in honor bound to tax sugar. There are other articles which are fit-subjects for taxation. Bank checks, for instance, would easily stand a tax, and such a tax would be self-collecting. Every man who has a bank account can afford to pay two cents for every check he draws against it. This tax and all other internal taxes were made the excuse for the high tariff duties which were supposed to be compensatory. Senator Allison said in excuse and cause of the advance of the tariff of July 14, 1852, and June 30, 1854. I quoted the language yesterday of the then chairman of the committee on ways and means in 1852, Mr. Thaddeus Stevens, himself a protectionist, and certainly in savor of the protection of the great interest of Pennsylvania iron. He made a pledge upon this floor in 1862 that those additions of duties upon manufactured articles in this country were made necessary because of the internal revenue taxes.

If protective duties are, as they were confessedly intended to be, compensatory for the internal taxes, then there can be no injustice in imposing a few of those latter taxes, which have, with the exception of the whisky and tobacco tax, almost all been swept away, while the tariff duties have been enormously in-

We are aware that the income tax was one of the internal taxes levied during the war. But it was a bad tax then. Mr. David A. Wells, perhaps our best authority on economic subjects, shows, in the January Forum, that in 1869, under a law assessing all incomes larger than there were only 254,617 persons out of a population of 37,-1 n such a time we need men of thorough of a saxable income. The exemption was from observation all that comes from accumu-raised in 1872 to $2,000; and the number of people who made a return of a taxable income had fallen to 72,949 out of a population of 39,000,000. Is not this a ridiculous showing? Yet it is the teaching of experience, and a recent experience, too. As Mr. Wells says, there was

A presumption that every one of the 38,927.051 who did not pay, and was made subject to inquisition by the officials in respect to his income, made oath that he was not in receipt from wages, salary, interest or profits of an income liable to taxation in excess of $2,000. From an economic point view it would be a misnomer to call such a result "taxation"; trom a moral point of its characterization as "appalling

This tax then being, as it is impolitic, and there being no necessity for it, is it not madness to imperil the Wilson bill by insisting upon incorporating an income tax in it? Even should the bill go through in spite of this handicap, it would be discredited. The American people are not fond of the tax-gatherer and his inquisitorial methods. They do not care to take the world into their confidence in regard to their business operations. It was a difficult matter to get them to answer the questions asked by the census agents when there was no taxation, except indirectly, involved. Many a man is willing to reveal information as to his gross receipts who would be dumb as an oyster about his net income.

We hope the Democrats will reconsider their ill-advised action. Let them tax sugar, bank checks, patent medicines and other articles of this sort which will suggest themselves to the student of taxation. But now that they have a chance to lift ome of the load of tariff taxes which are crushing the life out of our industries, it would be foliy to throw that chance away. And that is what they seem bent upon doing.

WAR IN PENNSILVANIA.

YESTERDAY'S papers brought news of a beautiful riot in Pennsylvania. As our McKinley contemporary said in its lurid headlines, it was only the old story of "men driven from their work by maddened Huns and Slavs who marched from place to place applying the torch and committing all kinds of excesses." These men are the constituents of Mr. Brosius, who said, in discussing the coal tax the other day, that "free coal would leave his constituents naked and defenseless." In discussing these remarkable words, we called attention to the fact that those constituents had always been paid miserable wages, and that American labor in the Pennsylvania mines had been largely displaced by foreigners. And now we find that this new outbreak, which is only the last of a long line of similar occurrences, is the work of Huns

Such things as this reveal the frightful hypocrisy of the whole protection business. American labor is uniformly sacrificed to the cupidity of American capital. We tax the necessaries of life, which American labor must have, at the highest rate, and those in whose interests these scandalous taxes are levied, import Huns and Slavs by the shipload to take the places of Americans who have been guilty of the crime of thinking that they were entitled to some of the benefits of protection. We keep out the goods and let in the men who produce them, and call that protection of American labor. More than that, ruin foreign industries, so that the men who are thrown out of employment in Germany and England and Russia have to come and do come to this country, and so depress the labor market. Whereupon the completed measure, of course; but We think American laborers understand done, so many paved streets put down as to how they have been swindled. And we believe that they understand what Mr. Brosius means when he whines about his constituents. They are Huns and Slavs who have been brought here by the millionaires who are now builying Congress in the hope that they can force it to tax clothes and warmth in their own interest.

AS TO STREET-CAR FARES.

IF it be true, as reported, that Mayor Denny is contemplating an attempt to modify the franchise granted to the City Railway Company with reference to the fares, we have to say that he will make a thoroughgoing mistake. This matter was discussed in all its phases at the time the franchise was offered by the city. While we do not think the terms asked by the city were the best in every particular, we do think that they were in the right direction, and the acceptance by the City company being an improvement on them it is hypercritical, if not malevolent, to attempt to better them. The Mayor's movement is exceedingly ill-timed. The street-car question is in the courts. The thing to be decided is the life of the existing company and the right of the new franchise to go into operation. Any attempt to disturb this situation by a meddlesome effort toward reduced fares or any thing else is not the part of good sense and may easily bear the construction of an effort to defeat the uncommonly favorable franchise which the city has secured and of which it may benefit according as the courts shall decide. It is true that the Republican platform on which Mayor Denny was elected spoke about reduced street-car fares. It is also true that in the campaign the deciding question was the enforcement of law, and that it was accepted on all sides that whichever side should win would mean no difference with reference to the street-car question, it being in the courts, for settlement, Mayor Denny had better leave it there. He is not called on for this foolish and impracticable attempt to have fares reduced. He can make nothing and mar much. He should devote his attention to guarding zealously the city's interests in the pending suit. The franchise to the City Company is one of the most favorable ever secured by any city. If the court's decision be such that we may realize on it Indianapolis will be in splendid shape. A movement toward three-cent fares, or toward any amendment of that franchise means mischief and nothing else. The Mayor had better keep his

JUSTICE BREWER'S REMARKABLE SPEECH.

THE fact that our Federal Supreme Court justices dwell so apart from the ordinary currents of life makes a speech which Justice Brewer delivered at Boston last week the more remarkable for its poor taste. The occasion was a dinner of the Boston alumni of Yale. After the speech Justice Brewer became alarmed, and went personally to the reporters present to suppress the reference to ex-President Hayes, of whom he snoke thus:

lated experience of centuries. When you ar not very ill you may send safely for a faith-cure doctor, but when the battle of life rages ficroely within your frame you need an edu-cated physic an. A pettifoger will do for a replevin for a calf, but it takes a twenty-five thousand-dollar lawyer to be a succe counsel for a great railroad corpora Even Mrs. Hayes's husband could make spectable President in time of peace, but it took Lincoln—gentle, great, sad—to pilot the Nation through the majestic times and the horrors of the civil war.

Even a stump speaker in time of political heat would hardly venture on a remark so cheap as this. That the occasion was semi-private does not mitigate the Justice's offense against good taste or make less inexcusable the abandonment of a dignity which members of his court have always carried into all the affairs life. It is not surprising that Mr. Brewer was desirous of preventing the publication of his speech as spoken. It was a thing for him to be heartily ashamed of. It would be unbecoming for a member of the Nation's highest court to criticise any public officer in such fashion, but when the oject of comment was an incumbent of the office of President, a gentleman whose recent death directed attention anew to merits which had been too scantily recognized in his lifetime, the offense is great enough without considering the ill-bred fashion in which in was spoken.

A fine sense of the functions of his judicial office should prevent the interpreter and maker of law in a court of final appeal from touching on matters which might in some form come before him for adjudication. Judge Brewer referred slightingly to a number of questions which have been or are likely to be before the Supreme Court. He said:

This is an age of cranks, who in ignorance of the teachings of the past think they have evolved out of their inner consciousness some scheme for the redemption of man and the reformation of society. Some of the schemes are amusing; some full of peril. In ancient they are so numerous the air is heavy with their braying. They advise us to make the State a dram-shop, to solve financial problems by wading bridle-deep in blood, to pardon anarchist murderers, to fill the mouths of hungry women and children by long-continued strikes, to divide the school money between different denominational bodies, houses of bad repute, and to put a tag on the Chinaman in order to protect the American to protect the American "Looking backward" is the heatitude of the future. In the good humor of the after-dinner hour a man might be pardoned for careless utterance, but Mr. Brewer read from a typewritten manuscript this astounding speech, making no change except in the wording of the paragraph about ex-President Hayes, which was spoken as above given. His toast was, "Has Alma Mater Lost Her Place?" which, in the light of this address, is the least bit suggestive.

This city is thrifty and prosperous to an unusual degree. The law under which improvements are made is such as to entail no hardship. We must advance. Ir seems strange that the rioting strikers in the Pennsylvania coal-fields have not fatened on the "protection" they have been given all these years.

MR. Longe in his recent speech in the Senate opposing the repeal of the Federal election law, spoke, in terms none too strong, of the scandalous performance of John Y. Mc-Kane, of Gravesend. And yet McKane behaved in much the same way in the election of 1888, when he cast the vote of his baili-wick almost solidly for Mr. Harrison, and when the Federal election law was in full force. Again in 1892, with that law administered by Republicans, Mr. McKane "fixed" for Mr. Cleveland. All this being true it is difficult to see what Mr. McKane has to do with the case.

IT is said that Mr. Peckham can not possibly be confirmed. We fear that this is true. The Senate represents little else than the whims and grudges of individual Senators. And as David B. Hill happens to be a Senator-to the everlasting shame of the great State of New York—his pleasure will probably be the controlling influence. But the gentlemen should be forced to stand up and be counted. Any agreement for a viva voce vote should be smashed. The dispatches bring word that there are many Democrats who want to vote against Peckham, but "as they do not desire to go upon record as antagonizing the President," they do not want a yea and nay vote. We say that any agreement to such an effect is distinctly immoral. The cowards should be smoked out. It has come to a pretty pass when a justice of the Supreme Court must belong not only to a certain political party, but to a certain faction of that party. The country has a right to know the names of the Senators who vote in favor of this unspeakable theory of government. THE Republicans in the House will not seek to delay the passage of the Wilson bill by voting to send it back to the committee. Would that the Senate would be so consid-

"I have watched it ever since I was a boy, and when the leaves turn early we have a hard winter; when they turn late we have an open winter. One would suppose that the time at which winter set in would have everything to do with the turning of the leaves, and it is known that some open winters have set in early and some cold ones set in late. But I have noticed that the time of cold weather beginning does not mark the turning of the leaves. The present winter set in early in Michigan. There was unusually cold weather in October, but the leaves did not turn until a month later than the average time. All lumbermen arranged for an open winter on that account, and they have not been mistaken. In fact, I have never known the sign to fail,"—[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

LATEST NEWS OF EUROPE.

THE WAR ALARM IN ENGLAND IS SLOWLY DYING OUT.

Public Attention No Longer Absorbed By Vague Rumors of Conflictreconciliation of the 1 mperor and Bismarck.

[London caste Chicago Herald.] events in Europe the past few tays have been along pleasanter lines than for months. Politics and war's vague alarms longer absorb public attention. Two boys-one in Egypt, the other in Servianave tried to give a melodramatic turn to the usually unimportant roles they play in the current human comedy, but they have not been taken too seriously. They were soon forgotten in the touching spectacle at Berlin yesterday which warmed the hearts of all Europe. Only in Paris has there been any attempt to attach a sinister meaning to reconcilation between the Kaiser and Prince Bismarck. All Germany shows unigned delight over the happy reunion, nd the rest of Europe looks on with sym-athetic interest and approval. The jealpathetic interest and approval. The jeal-ous Frenchmen pretend to see in the event the first step toward winning away their new-found Russian friends. They argue also that the Emperor is unwilling to enter the impending war without the support of the Iron Chuncellor, and the friends of England see no other significance in the incident than a worthy desire by the young Emperor not to allow the man to whom he owes his throne to go down to his grave un-reconciled. The gracious and graceful act certainly restored the Kaiser to his place in the affections of the German people, which he almost sacrificed in the early months of his reign.

The boy Khedive of Egypt has taken it back and said he didn't mean it, so the English government has withdrawn the threat of spanking him. The incident has much aggravated the Egyptian situation locally, but has improved the British position before other powers. The exhibition of headstrong stupidity by a modern Pharaoh serves as an abundant excuse for England to continue her protectorate until the lad develops ordinary discretion. The the lad develops ordinary discretion. The first suspicions that the Khedive was prompted by European mischief-makers to insult his unwelcome British guests is no longer held, in view of the utter folly of his outbreak.

ANOTHER PROOF OF INCOMPETENCY.

The matter is regarded merely as another proof of the incompetence of the youngster for the serious responsibility of government. Accounts agree that his new display of hostility toward the English will make the task of British supervision exceedingly difficult and may lead to serious native outbreaks. The Khedive's silly conduct and the sad death of Sir Gerald Portal have upset all admirable diplomatic arrange-ments. It was decided that Lord Cromer thould go to St. Petersburg and Sir Gerald Portal succeed him at Cairo. The govern-ment was only awaiting Sir Gerald's resto-ration to health to carry the arrangement

The Speaker, a weekly literary organ of The Speaker, a weekly literary organ of liberalism, endeavors to create a political sensation by aunouncing the discovery of a grand new tory scheme, designed to dish the home rulers by the establishment of a great national councils, two for England and one each for Ireland, Scotland and Wales, with the endowment of an Irish Catholic university. The Speaker further declares the scheme has been submitted to the leaders of the Irish nationalist party. It is probable this pretty story has been sabled to America with a show of authority. It has set politicians here thinking freely. cabled to America with a show of authority. It has set politicians here thinking freely, therefore, it is necessary to say that the whole thing is a fantastic "fake." The proud author is Barry O'Brien, barrister, journalist, and the writer of several books on Irish politics which Gladstone has praised. O'Brien last night spent several hours trotting about Fleet street with a bundle of proofs and a mysterious air. He interviewed editors, hinted with bated breath at the triple authorship of the scheme—Salisbury, Balfour and Chamberlain—dropped a casual word about his friends Redmond, Dillon and Davitt, as though he had just left them, and planted his proofs with appearent reluctance at the premature divulgence of a great state secret. ture divulgence of a great state secret. To-day Chamberlain pronounces the scheme unfounded and the Irish leaders denounce it.

[London cable New York Sun.] Balour's great speech advocating the creation of a new cabinet bureau for imperial defense is the only contribution of the week to the naval scare. The govern-ment naval program will be announced soon after Parliament reassembles. The latest forecast credits it with the intention to begin ships costing £7,000,000 this year. has been again demonstrated this week that the new battle-ships are utterly unfitted, offensively or detensively, for the work expected of them. It is learned that the battle-ship Resolution, when going to join the channel squadron, rolled the maximum of the pendulum indicator in favorable weather. The Empress of India, the flagship of the channel squadron, attempting to practice with her quick-firing guns the other day in a moderate swell, relied forty degrees, while the first-class cruiser Narcissus rolled only seventeen. She was unable to use her guns and was exposed several feet below her armor. It is learned that the admiralty quickly placed her sister ship, the Victoria, of the Mediterranean squadron, in dock at Malta and is adding a number of bulkheads in hopes to make her expected of them. It is learned number of bulkheads in hopes to make her safe. Aside from the question of safety there seems to be grave reason to believe that the modern British battle-ship will be at the mercy of an inferior enemy in any but smooth seas. Sir Edward Reed, the famous naval expert, affirms as much in a long letter to the Cardiff Journal this week. A Rome correspondent writes that order has been nominally restored in Italy and Sicily, but it is doubtful if a permanent peace is restored. The trouble will probably recur as soon as the extra troops are removed. The only chance of pacifying the removed. The only chance of pacifying the people is by establishing relief works, but the government is in such sore financial straits that the money can not be spared, although its cost would enable a considerable reduction in military expenditures to be made. Things will doubtless improve by spring, but in the meanwhile the poverty and suffering of the populace is simply ap-

Misery and Hunger Everywhere. cable St. Louis Globe-D Misery reigns everywhere, and in the remoter rural districts men, women and children are dying daily from actual hunger. An idea of what is going on in the interior of Sicily is gathered from the fact officially admitted that two hundred persons, the entire population of the village of Roghudi, suddenly arrived in Cittanova Tuesday, ragged and shoeless, the younger Tuesday, ragged and shoeless, the younger men carrying the old folks and the women their children. Many were in a pitiable state of exhaustion. Several women had dead children in their arms and two or three old men had died on the way. They declared that they left the village because an exodus was the only alternative to dying of starvation. There was not a scrap of food in the place when they left, and nothing was growing on the land. Premier Crispi knows well the dreadful state of affairs in his native island, but appears powerless. He has again postponed his promised visit to Sielly, his friends ay, because he dreads to gaze on misery he is unable to alieviate, but his enemies whisper that he is afraid of assassination as a renegade Siellian.

Arrest of Jabez Balfour. [London cable New York Sun.]

The government has shown remarkable sourage in obtaining the arrest of Jabez Balfour and the tories are not a little astonished thereat. It has long been a part of their political ereed that ministers would do everything decently possible to prevent his extradition and the consequent raking up of old scandals, wherein those most involved are all Gladstonean Liberals. It is an open secret that Harcourt and several other members of the Cabinet were of this opinion, but the majority yielded to the views of Rosebery and Asquith, who contended that the credit of bringing the archewindler to justice would amply compensate for other disadvantages. There is little doubt that more than one honorable reputation will be smirched in the course of Ballour's trial.

Only a select few, mainly lawyers and banbruptcy officers concerned in the elaborate investigation of the affairs of the Liberator Bulldings Society and the other companies involed in its fall, are really aware the vast ramifications of his sinister influence and the superndous audacity of his methods. These people more than hint that several Liberal members of Parliament ought to be placed in the dock alongside of Balfour and that the law and facts would not be unduly strained if at least one minor member of the government should be included in the indictment. There is reason to believe that the charges against Balfour include forgery, in which case a sentence of penal servitude for life is assured. There won't be the slightest difficulty in securing conviction on any charge the presecution Only a select few, mainly lawyers and conviction on any charge the prosecution may prefer.

Balfour's Belief in Psychic Phenomens

London cable Chicago Herald. Mr. Balfour, the leader of the opposition, distinguished himself this week not only in the delivery of a strong series of political speeches, but by openly advocating a thorough and scientific investigation of psychic or spiritualistic phenomena. He, as president of the Society of Psychical Research, said in an address vesterday that he thought the time had come when the leaders of entific thought should recognize that there were well-attested facts which did not naturally fall into the framework of the sci ences or of organized experiences. The proposed investigation was different from he scientific cross-examination of nature. for it would have to deal with abnormal or incomplete faculties, with exceptional con-ditions in exceptional individuals. He saw no inherent impossibility of such half-formed senses being sporadically developed n the human race.

They seemed to come across facts which could not be made by any manipulation to fit into the interstices of the accepted view of the psychical world. If that were so, they were engaged in a work of prodigious they were engaged in a work of prodigious difficulty, but one of whose importance the difficulty was only the measure. They had refractory class problems to deal with, but it seemed to him that at least they would be able to prove that outside of the world, as scientifically they had been in the habit of conceiving it, there lay a region, not open indeed to experimental observation in the same way that the more familiar regions of the material world were open, but from which some information could be gleaned; and if they could not as the result of their exertions discover what laws these strange phenomena obeyed, it would at all events be something to have shown as a matter of ascertained fact that there were things in heaven and earth which were beyond philosophy, even of the most scientific.

GENEROSITY OF THE POOR Their Kindness To Each Other in Distress-Is Happiness Only Relative? [Harper's Weekly.] F you will go often enough into any humble quarter of any city in the Republic you will see acts that will stir your admiration for the masses who are so completely unknown. You might suppose that in their narrow, dingy abodes, ill fed and ill clad, ever fighting the hard, fierce battle of life, they would be as savages. Why or how should they have minds to think of, souls to feel for, the woes of the unfortunates about them? They could not be blamed if they were as unyielding as the mountains, as cruel as the sea. Are they? Let us look! In this tenement, consisting of three lit-tle rooms, is a family of six-four small children. The parents are ill, caused by bad air and insufficient food, and may die. The neighbors have given of their slender store to buy a few comforts. The two women across the dirty hall have left their women across the dirty hall have left their washing, and are taking care of the little folk. When that is done they will prepare the simple meal, will administer the medicine prescribed, will put the tenement to rights so far as it may be righted. In these plain offices they will occupy four or five hours, most precious to them in earning daily stipend, and never think how good they are. Other women will then come in and watch by turns with the sick couple. So these invaluable kindnesses will con-tinue until death or recovery makes their service for the time superflous

HELPFUL SYMPATHY. In a dark basement, through whose rattling windows the noonday light scarcely struggles, a baby has just been born. It lies wailing on a soiled, ragged quilt, as if to protest against entering so grim a corner of a relentless world. The mother, young and not uncomely, appears happy, even in that dismal cellar, smiling faintly at a wrinkled female, who, having volunteered for the occasion, has hobbled down from the top story to render, unsolicited and un-recompensed, such assistance as she may. Other elderly females, hearing of the new birth, are brought thither by sympathy with the event, and are eager to proffer their assistance. The father, ordained like his order to repeated paternity, was called away at sunrise to his task-cleaning the streets-and knows not yet what his fellowscavengers, unconscious of sarcasm, term his good luck. He will be only less happy than his wife when he is told of what has ecurred in his absence.

Happy? Can be be happy, born to indi-Happy? Can he be happy, born to indi-gence, ceaseless labor and ever-frowning destiny? The majority of the prosperous would be in the depths of despair, would hardly cars to live, were their lot his or hers. Surely happiness is relative. The very poor, invariably wretched as they must appear to the rich, have their compensa-tions, after all. One of these is the will, without pondering or self-felicitation, to do good where good is most needed and fortune most malignant.

The poor, in order to be resigned to the world, must be optimists. May it not be that they who have least cause for contentment possess the largest share? May not the poor be too engrossed in austere breadwinning to reflect on what constitutes contentment? Is not their formless faith generated by lack of leisure, by grinding, consuming toil? Can this be another disguised compensation? most malignant.

SANDOW'S ROMANCE.

How He Met Miss Blanche Brooks, the Young Lady He is to Marry. New York Herald.

A gentleman in this city tells a romantic little story about how Eugene Sandow, the strong man, met Miss Blanche Brooks, the strong man, met Miss Blanche Brooks, the young lady to whom it was recently announced he is engaged to be married. While Sandow was performing at the Crystal Palace in London a couple of years ago, the platform on which he was supporting horses on his breast broke and it was only his presence of mind that saved him from being crushed to death. As it was he escaped unhurt, and crowds of people pushed forward to shake hands with him and to congratulate him. In the midst of this excitement a lady, who was sitting in a box, threw him a bunch of violets.

A few months later a runaway truck horse came near rushing into a coupe occupied by a lady. Sandow, who chanced to be passing, saw the danger, and by his great strength succeeded in diverting the course of the runaway horse, and so saved the life of the young lady. She proved to be the same who had thrown him the bunch of violets, and Sandow now learned that her name was Miss Blanche Brooks. They subsequently became engaged, and expect to be married this summer.

candidates who are announced are now in office and are seeking renominations. Some of those mentioned have not officially announced that they will stand for renom-ination. At least one of them has been timid about making his wishes known. He has said to some his friends that he doubts if the Demo-erats will stand the

However, the Democratic the other party. However, the Democratic managers say that it is too early to base any conclusions on the searcity of candidates. There will be an abundant crop of candidates in time, they insist.

Much interest attaches to the coming together Thursday, for the first time, of the members of the new Democratic State committee. There is no attempt made by leaders of the party to conceal the fact that the views of the members of the com-mittee do not agree on all public questions. John G. Shanklin was elected to represent the First district committee, and those who know him well, realize that he will be heard of the members believe might be left unof the memors believe might be left un-discussed. Mr. Shanklin was able to get through the convention in his district a resolution taking the Indiana repre-sentatives in the United States Senate to task for supporting the money policy of President Cleveland, and the impression here is that he will take occasion from time to time to express time to time to express public questions, whether those views

meet with the approval of the other members of the committee or not. The men who have heretofore been active in the affairs of the State committee suspect that there are unpleas ant times ahead, and just now it looks as if there would be difficulty in getting a good political manager to accept the chairman-ship. "The man who is chairman during the coming campaign will spend many sleepness nights," said a Democrat to-day. "In the first place, he will have trouble in keeping Shanklin still. Shanklin will be the brains of the committee, and he will talk whether it is policy for him to do so or not. It is well known that the Democrats of Indiana are not in harmony on any proposition at this time. There is a free-silver faction led by Shanklin, Dave Allen and John B. Stoll, and the men who compose that faction will not consent to the compose that faction will not consent to the State platform containing a plank in indorsement of the financial policy of President Cleveland. Gray's interests must be looked after, and there are men on the committee who will see, if possible, that something is done that will help to brighten his political future. Senator Voorhees will, doubtless, try to use the committee in presidential hoom, and Gov. promoting his presidential boom, and Gov-ernor Matthews will want some attention. All in all, the chairman will have his hands full trying to please four or five leaders. be something of a task to get in line cause they have not been rewarded with Federal appointments.

"ALLEN COUNTY IS STILL DEMO-

It looks as if the committee would force Thomas Taggart to drive the party team again, although he has said positively that again, atmough he has said positively, that he will not accept the chairmanship.

"Tom knows how to smooth down the rough edge better than any other man in the State," said one of the members of the committee, "and that is the kind of a man we shall need this year."

The leaders of the party put the situation The leaders of the party put the situation before Mr. Taggart in this way: "You were anxious to be chairman two years ago, when it was evident that the party could carry the State without half trying. Now, when there is a fight, you should not shirk."

Mr. Taggart has seen the force of the argument, and instead of positively declining, he he did two months ago he is hesitating. He has been insisting that S. P. Sheerin, of Logansport, would make a first-class chairman, but Mr. Sheerin says with a good deal of emphasis that he will not take the chairmanship, and that Mr. Taggart must accept the office. It is said that Mr. Taggart is not positive that he will have the hearty support of all the members of the commutee in case he should be made chairman again. It has only been about two months since the Evansville Courier (Mr. Shauklin's paper) and five or six other Demolin's paper) and five or six other Demo-cratic papers throughout the State declared that the men who sent out an address to the Democrats of the State were forgers. Mr. Taggart was one of the few men present when that address was written, and given to Volney T. Foster, of Evanston, Ill., who, as president of the Western Paving and Supply Company, comes to Indianapolis every time there is talk about there being an asphalt trust, is a candidate for Congress in the new district on the North Side in Chicago. The Chicago Record says that President Cleveland and Mr. Foster have had intimate relations of some sort in the past, which gives Mr. Foster a "pull," Mr. Foster has never talked politics during his frequent visits to Indianapolis.

"After a candidate has been over the State once he can pretty nearly tell whether he has any chance for the nomination," said one candidate to another in a hotel lobby one candidate to another in a hotel lobby the other evening.

"As a rule you need not count all the fingers on one hand," said the first to speak.

"I know of many counties where two or three men make up the shate for the entire county. It is all very pretty to talk about the people making the nominations, but they do not do it. The candidate who knows the right men to see in the several counties makes the most headway. There is nothing like knowing who the workers are."

TOLD OVER THE TYPES.

the common traits of printers. "One evening I was standing at the corner of Washington and Illinois, waiting for a friend, a young clerk in a local bank, who had promised to meet me there, and afterward we were going to Fairview. I was dressed in my new summer suit and wore a bright-yellow tie. It was about 8 o'clock and the lights down town shone on a seemingly gay and happy, hurrying throng.

"I had been standing there perhaps five minutes. As Indianapolis was a new city to me then, and, as I gazed up one street and down the other alternately in a sort of anxious manner, or looked in wonder at the old transfer car, I suppose it all betokened the way of a stranger seeing the sights of a metropolis.

"While looking up Washington street, I noticed a keen-eyed, quietly-dressed, elderly man watching me as he stood near the big clock close to the corner. I suspected something, but did not seem to take any notice whatever of him. In one of the crowds that came down the street he took the opportunity to approach me and when he was within a step or two of me he pre-tended to slip his footing and fell plump

"'Well, you surely forget. I paid—'
"'No, you didn't. And now. Mr. Johnson, if you are the honest man I thought you were, you will pay that $10.75 right off and I will give you a receipt for it. I am sorry to speak of such a thing at this time—but business is business.'

"He looked at me in astonishment and then eyed me like a worsted animal that yet had hopes of getting the best of its foe.

COMMON-SENSE TRUTHS.

An Able Physician Explains, the After-Effects of Grip, the Condition in Which It Leaves People, and the Only Thing To Do.

"It is a very slow process!"
The speaker was a prominent physician, outinuing, he said: "I mean getting over the after-effects of the grip. Any one who has seen as much of it as I have can easily understand it. The grip lasts for a long time, and seems to take a special hold upon the system. It frequently runs into pneumonia, sometimes leaves the hearing partially impaired, the throat with an irr taing screness, and the stomach with impaired ligestion. It seems to take a long time to re-ing soreness, and the stomach with impaired digestion. It seems to take a long time to recover the attength, the energy, or the ambition after one has had a run of the grip, and we frequently find neuralgia, rheumatism, and even worse the mession following it.

"Now, what should any sensible man or woman do under these circumstances? The answersems hard, but is really eas." Simply help Nature to get over the trouble—stimulate the body and faculties just a little. This is what every good physician in the land advocates in order to drive grip out of the system. It should be remembered, however, that the stimulant must be pure, and that nothing for this purpose is equal to good whiskey. It is unfortunate, however that there is so little pure medicinal whiskey to be found, and, in fact, it can be truly said that there is but one strictly medicinal whiskey upon the maket, and that is Dury's Pure Mait. It is not like ordinary whiskey, however much druggists and grocers may say so. It has, in fact, properties possessed by no other, and is beyond question a stimulant which can safely and electually be taken to prevent the grip of drive away its most disastrous after-effects."

PROVISION CHANGES. The general market for provisions, as before noted, has been duli and prices have been sustained rather by light receipts and high prices of hogs rather than by an active demand for hog products. Eggs and Poultry.

Local shippers prices on eggs, butter and poultry were unchanged to-day. The January receipts of eggs at New York were 136,908 cases up to Saturday, against 52,672 cases for the same time the preceding year. A review of the market at New York says.

the same time the preceding year. A review of the market at New York says:

The receipts have continued quite heavy, almost as large as last week, while the actual demand for consumption has shown very little improvement, but with a cold wave starting in the Northwest, extending throughout the Mississippi valley and spreading over the whole eastern section, together with reports of some competition for stock from the Pacific slope and collections smaller from the fact that many farmers refused to accept the low prices, encouraged shippers in the hope that prices must im rove, and the larger proportion of the arrivals nearly all the week have been ordered off the market, and this fact caused comparatively moderate available supplies, and supported speculators in their efforts to bolster the market, and, under manipulation, prices steadily advanced from 14%c on Monday to 17%c within fact a few sales at 17%c on Thursday, but on. Friday the speculative interest subsided, some of the limits were removed and under freer offerings and a very slow demand, prices weakened and 18%c was about all that could be reached; in fact, free offers to sell at that attracted very little attention.

The market is in a very sensitive position

Hitle attention.

The market is in a very sensitive position with the outlook uncertain, depending entirely on the receipts and weather next week. Trade for actual use continues exceedingly dull while there is a large accumulation here and though a few limits are taken of, the larger proportion here and arriving are still tied up.

POULTRY.

The market for dressed poultry, says the same review, has generally been a very unsatisfactory one most all the week. Receipts have been liberal, and while including a good many frozen or lots packed for the freezers, which have gone direct into refrigerators on arrival, still the fresh stock intended for immediate sale has been heavy and a large proportion has been more or less sticky on arrival, with considerable in really bad order, while much of the stock that has arrived in good condition has shown very irregular quality, most of the turkeys being heavy and course, while the chickens have been mixed with staggy young roosters and all defective stock has been under neglect and steadily accumulating, notwithstanding holders have been willing to accept most any offer to clean them up. Speaks of Western Improvement and Declares the East Too Pessimistic.

New York, January 29.—The Wall-street market shows little change from their late features. Transactions are light and the speculative movement is narrow; but the undersone of prices remains firm. When prices yield, there are few sellers; nor do advances bring out any important amounts of stock.

In brief, holders are not sellers at present prices, and appear to be satisfied to hold on until conditions favor higher values. This turn of the tide is most conspicuous in the Northwest and Southwest. In those sections, the mercantile interests show a decided improvement, which expresses itself in the markets of this city in an increased number of buyers, as well as in an ability to buy larger parcels, and in better collections and fewer requests for extension of payments. ately, on arriving here, these interior Unfortunately, on arriving here, these interior buyers find still a discouraged feeling, much complaint and a lack of firmness in prices notwithstanding the extraordinary lowness of the stocks of goods; and under those circumstances they deem it prudent to buy less than they really want, with consequent discourage-ment to our local merchants. A few days ago a series of concessions were made in staple cotton goods, which, instead of encouraging sales, have trightened buyers and produced a general check on business in that branch of

It would seem as though manutacturers and commission merchants have allowed their fears at the effects of tariff changes to get the better of their sober judgment, with the result of their overlooking the favorable points in the situation and placing themselves at the mercy of customers, who, under such circumstances, buy much less than they really want. And yet the fact that the long idle inctories are so generally resuming work implies that manufacturers are aware of the cahausted state of stocks and believe that the markets are propared to take a fair amount, of goods. As this city is the headquarters for manufacturers are well as for distributers, it is not surprising that the dispirited feeling among the former should find expression here more than alsowhere; and a little more experience is likely to convince producers that it does not pay to infect their customers with their own misgivings. When that point is reached, there is likely to be a marked change from the feeling and the volume of trade which exist at the moment.

Mr. Philip D. Armour is quoted as saying: "It is time to begin to hedge on 'bear' views. Trade has picked up so much in the last ten It would seem as though manufacturers and SIGNS OF BETTER PEELING. days, I feel myself like hedging on the view of the situation I took a fortnight ago. There of the situation I took a fortnight ago. There have been more signs of returning confidence this last week than I have seen for a long time. The general mercantile trade has very much more of the old-time look to it than I have seen for many a month." This is important testimony from a competent judge of affairs in the West; and the improvement to which Mr. Armour testifies can not long fall to make its impression at this center.

What Mr. Armour reports for Chicago appears to apply equally to the Southwest. A recent dispatch from St. Louis to a local commercial journal (Dun's Review) states: "In the general business here there is absolutely nothing left of the business depression. The grain trade has suffered from cut-rates to the lest, which took grain of all kinds around the city on through bills of lading. Yet elevator receipts have been very fair. Jobbers and manufacturers, particularly in shoe and groevy lines, report good orders and unusually free remittances.

The correspondence of traveling men is free remittances.

The correspondence of traveling men is generally very confident and hopeful, particularly in dry goods. It is thus very clear that our local pessimists have overcolored their billous pictures of the situation, and they are likely to have to do some recanting of their ptonhasying against their own interest. In the meantime, however, the West will be shrewd enough to take New York at its word and profit by its underestimate of the situation. This change of feeling at the interior is producing an improved tone in the Granger securities, and an early recovery in the carnings of that group of railroads is looked for.

The action of Congress on the sugar duty has been a leading feature in the stock market. The vote in the committee of the whole in favor of making the article duty free naturally caused some selling of Trust stock, but the price was affected much less than might have been expected under the circumstances. There is an impression in some quarters that legislation on this article is influenced by speculation; and those who entertain that view regard the vote as intended to afford an opportunity for covering previous "short" sales, and also of buying for a rise on the prospect of subsequent action reversing the House vote and adording protection to the trust. The way the stock acted under the vote seems to give some support to this view. The drift of London icelling seems to be turning in favor of this market. The bad effects of the numerous receiverships of our roads in which foreigners are interested seem to have done their worst; and investors are coming around to the conclusion that, in the world-wide financial reaction, all investments have suffered, and those of the Unitee States not nearly so much as some others. London, there ore, is showing more interest in "Americans." but seems inclined to limit its attention to securities supposably beyond the reach of receiverships.

SELLING PAWN TICKETS.

An Old Swindling Game Practiced in

The old game of the pawnbroker check was renewed the other day, but it did not last long. Superintendent Powell sent detectives out after the operators, who' heard of the officers and left town. One of the victims was Nicholas Wamster, who keeps a barber shop in South Illinois street near Georgia street. A good-looking stran-ger got shaved at Wamster's shop not ong ago. As payment, the on him accepted at waited dollars' value a pawn-broker's check calling for a diamond ring worth $175, on which $35 had been advanced. The barber sold Wamster the ticket, on The and Wamster went to the pawn shop after the ring. He paid the amount pledged and thought he had a bargain. A jeweler placed the value of the ring at $4. Wamster employed Kealing & Hugg to bring suit against the pawnbroker, but the firm decided that the case would not stand and advised the barber to charge about $33 to

NUMBER OF NEEDY INCREASING. List at the Food Market-The Bad

There were 202 names added to the list at the food market last week. The number of applicants was over three hundred. This is as many, if not more, additions than have been made in any previous week, and is taken as an indication that the number of needy people in the city is on the in-crease. The daily demand for food is suf-ficient to keep the food market force busy all the time the market is open. There are from 125 to 150 men being sent to work each day by the relief committee. Since the street work has been prevented for several days by bad weather, all the men sent have not been furnished with work.

KOKOMO, January 29 .- The first sensation n the trial of Calvin Armstrong, the defaulting deputy treasurer of Tipton county, has been occasioned by the return of ex Treasurer James K. Armstrong from the northern prison in irons to testify against his son. In the recent trial in which he was convicted and sent to prison for a year from the Hamilton county court, the elder Armstrong is said to have made admissions which can be used with highly dangerous effect against the accused in the case on trial, and the spectacle of a father condemning his own son may be witnessed before the State closes its evidence. Armstrong will probably go on the stand to marrow. To-day has been constand to marrow. stand to-morrow. To-day has been con-sumed in the reading of records and the hearing of the testimony of the expert accountants, and has been dull and uninaccountants, and has been dull and uninteresting to the large crowd of spectators, many of whom have come from Tipton county to watch the proceedings. It is now known that the detense relies principally, if not entirely, on the supposed insufficiency of the indictment. In every count it charges young Armstrong with embezzling certain moneys, "the same being the property of Tipton county." The defense will bring authorities to show that the law holds these moneys to be the property of the county treasurer, not the county, and at the proper time they will ask the court to take the case from the jury and discharge the prisoner. Good lawyers here, who have given the matter attention, and who are not interested on either side, declare that the indictment, to be safe, should have charged in at least one count

WABASH, January 29 .- The announcemen that the validity of the new fee and salary law had been affirmed by the Supreme Court gave the sheriff, treasurer and recorder of this county and the thirty candidates for county offices a congestive chill. Under its provisions the recorder, after paying his deputies out of the $1,400 a year allowed him, receives only $400. The county treas urer will be obliged to perform all the work of his office himself, and the sheriff, when he has met all expenses, will have $350 per year left for his services. The clerk and auditor's office yield but little better returns. Sheriff Williams said yesterday that he would run the office through one term of court, and if it paid no more than he antic ipated he would resign. The decision cre ated a panic among the candidates for office before the convention of February 13, and it is probable that many of them will pull off the track. The Vermillion Will Case On Trial. Special to The Indianapolis News.1 ANDERSON, January 29 .- The Vermillio case has entered upon its second week of trial. It is considered one of the most important ever docketed in this county, Judge Stevenson of Noblesville is presiding. A struck jury was impaneled. The plaintiffs are Thomas and Chauncey Vermillion, and the defendants Urish C. Vermillion and his son, Jesse. The plaintiffs allege that more than $200,000 of Madison county real estate and more than twice that amount in gold have been appropriated by the defendants from the estate of the late Jesse Vermillion, father of complainants. The senior Ver-million died about one year ago. The plain-tiffs allege that Uriah C. Trouble is brewing in the Indiana coal article is brewing in the Indiana coal district over the prospect of a material lowering of the wage-schedule to meet reductions in the Ohio and Pittsburg fields. The Montgomery county grand jury re turned indictments against several score of citizens of Crawfordsville for engaging in citizens of Crawfordsville for engaging in games of chance. It appears that for the past two months there have been numerous "raf-fles," the proceeds of which were devoted to charity. The prosecutor warned the projectors that the raffling must stop, but it was per-sisted in. The defendants include a number of prominent people, and there is one loca philanthropist who has twenty indictment against him. A number of defendants have given notice that they will stand trial, under the impression that no jury can be found to convict, inasmuch as the offense was solely the name of charity and no profit accrued.

NO EFFORT TO SAVE STONE.

Friends of the Wratten Murderer

Bud Stone, the murderer of the Wratten family in Daviess county some months ago, is to be hanged at the Jeffersonville penitentiary on February 16. It will be the first hanging in an Indiana State prison since the passage of the law requiring executions to take place in penitentiaries. Stone is taking final leave of his relatives, and preparations for the execution are in progress. No effort has been made to have the Governor postpone the execution or to pardon Stone. So far as is known at the Governor's office Stone had no friends to intercede for him, and nothing is expected to occur that will prevent the hanging on the date fixed by the Circuit Court.
It has been intimated that application to the Governor for executive elemency would not be considered, and this may account for the silence of those relatives who would like to have the execution postponed or prevented. The Governor has had only prevented. The Governor has had only two letters on the subject of executions since the crime was committed. They did not apply to the hanging of Stone, but were in opposition to capital punishment in general. The law requires that the execution shall take place before 6 o'clock in the ELECTION PRECINCTS.

Numerous Changes Will Be Neces sary In the State This Year.

State Printer Stein is sending out in structions concerning the canvassing of votes for the election next fall. The canvass is to be made by the county commis sioners at their June sessions. Owing to the increase of votes it will be necessary to change many precincts in the State. The law limits the number of voters to 250 to a precinct. The commissioners will have to change the boundaries and increase the number of precincts where the vote has grown beyond the limit. Two-thirds of the precincts in Marion county will have to be changed. Before the last election the county auditors who reported the canvass of the commissioners made many errors which added to the work that the State election board ordinarily has to do. One auditor left an entire township out of his report.

It is required by law that within sixty days after a State convention the nominations must be filed with the election board. Failure to do this nearly had a serious result in the last State campaign. The Prohibition and People's tickets were not submitted within the required time, and the election board discussed for some time the question of leaving the two tickets off of the printed ballots.

The Rev. A. W. Bartlett, of the Seventh

The Rev. A. W. Bartlett, of the Seventh-Day Adventists, will go to California early next month. He is preaching a series of farewell sermons. Yesterday he spoke of the fuifillment of prophecy in the French revolution, and in concluding said:

"The causes that resulted in the 'Reign of Terror' exist to-day in our own land. Leading up to the rejection of the Bible by France, were the following social conditions: The estates held by the nobles, and the bulk of wealth in their hands, and the laboring classes (only tenants) forced to submit to exorbitant demands of their landlords; the burden of taxes failing on the middle and lower classes. The lives of agricultural laborers were lives of incessant work and unrelieved misery: bribes notoriously accepted by judges; little confidence between the people and their rulers: suspicion fastened upon all the measures of the government as designing and selfish; the wealthy given up to luxury and profligacy; and, above all, France was Papal priest-ridden. So it is to-day in our country. Chiefly among the causes that will surely produce a second 'reign of terror' have been the virtual union in our land of church and state by the decree of the Supreme Court of February, 1892, in which it was declared 'that Christianity is the law of the land.' This is a Christian nation.' Also, the first finished enactment of religion by the Congress of the United States was the adoption of the sundry civil appropriation bill, with the clause conditioning Government appropriation for the World's Fair on Sunday closing of the Fair. Though Congress is forbidden by the constitution to engage in religious legislation, yet here we see the recognition of Sunday we the Government is averable. the Fair. Though Congress is forbidden by the constitution to engage in religious leg-islation, yet here we see the recognition of Sunday by the Government in opposition to and contempt of the Seventh Day, which is the Sabbath of the Lord. Neither day should be recognized by law, but by recognizing Sunday, which is a distinctly Catholic institution, this Nation has sold itself to Rome, and started upon a career of religious legislation, which will end only in national pairs.

"Catholicism united with an apostate Protestantism, will thus bring about another revolution in the United States, whose effects will be more terrible still than was the French revolution of 1793, and which will only be ended by the coming of the Lord Jesus Christ."

AMERICAN INSOLVENCY.

[London Spectator.]

[London Spectator.]

Pive years ago American finance was the enty of the world. Taxation was not oppressive, the debt was being paid off at a rate beyond the dreams of economy, and every year there rolled into the Treasury a surplus which made European chancellors of the exchequer sigh with envy. Then came the administration of General Harrison, and after four years of judicious indiscretions in the matter of finance, the whole condition of things was changed, and the Treasury was left completely empty. And yet there had been no war to waste the resources of the Nation, no plague, no famine, no terrible or exceptional financial crisis, none of the things which impair a country's vitality, and make her poor. The money, as the parish clerk set forth in his report to the vestry, had simply been "moodled away," and "moodled away" consciously and deliberately.

Strange as it sounds, the chief embarrassment of the Republican party when they lodged their nominee in the White House was the flourishing state of the finances. They came into power pledged to the manufacturers of the United States to maintain protection, and if possible to extend it; but this was a very difficult thing to do in face facturers of the United States to maintain protection, and if possible to extend it; but this was a very difficult thing to do in face of the fact that the Treasury already had more money than it knew what to de with. It is easy to clap on a duty of 20 per cent. when money is needed. When, however, you have got too much money, the natural—almost the necessary—thing to do is to take off taxation. The Republican managers faced the disagreeable situation like business men. They saw that the only plan was, by some means or other, to get rid of the surplus. That once accomplished, the tariff remained at their disposal. Till, however, the surplus was got rid of and the finances were thoroughly embarrassed, there could be no sure foundation for extractive extraction. embarrassed, there could be no sure founda-tion for a protective system. Accordingly, they set themselves to bale out the Treasury, they set themselves to bale out the Treasury, and to throw overboard the superfluous and unwelcome dollars.

But the protectionists were far too shrewd to give away the surplus to the first comer. They saw that the problem before them, when properly understood, presented itself in the following way: How to reduce the surplus in such a way that the money got rid of should buy the protectionist party support in the country? Keeping this object before them, they succeeded in devising a very ingenious scheme of expenditure—one which not only most effectually embarrassed the Treasury, but which won or kept steady thousands of voters in every State of the Union.

The facts, which are well worth looking steady thousands of voters in every State of the Union.

The facts, which are well worth looking into in detail, are set forth in the speech in which Mr. Wilson introduced the new tariff bill into the House of Representatives on Monday. The surplus for the year 1889 amounted to no less than £21,000,000, and when the Clevaland administration went out of office the cash balance in the Treasury reached the enormous sum of £37,000,000.

when the Clevaland administration went out of office the cash balance in the Treasury reached the enormous sum of £37,000,000. The first attempt to get rid of this incubus of gold was the purchase of bonds not yet redeemable at a high, premium.

During the first seven months of General Harrison's term of office, bonds to the amount of £34,000,000 were thus purchased at premiums ranging from 5 to 8 per cent. on the bonds of 1891, and from 27 to 29 per cent. on the bonds of 1891, and from 27 to 29 per cent. on the bonds due in 1907. In spite, however, of this, and of large disbursements at the beginning of the following year for redemption of bonds and payment of interest not yet due, it was impossible to keep the surplus within bounds by any such tentative methods.

Accordingly, the Fifty-first Congress resolved to take the matter seriously in hand. It succeeded, and won itself an everlasting fame in so doing. The Fifty-first Congress of the United States of America will never need a monument. The emptying of the Treasury, and the imposition of new burdens on the people during a time of profound peace and prosperity, is its everlasting monument—one that will last to the end of recorded time as the great example of how public money may be wasted. Congress began by refunding to the various States of the Union the product of the direct taxes. This was a purely gratuitous and altogether uncalled-for act. No gress began by refunding to the various States of the Union the product of the direct taxes. This was a purely gratuitous and altogether uncalled-for act. No matter. It relieved the bursting Treasury of some £2,800,000. The next scheme was the establishment of bounties on the growth of sugar, under which some £3,400,000 has been paid to the sugar-growers. These, however, were mers nothings compared to the great scheme under which an extra £12,000,000 a year was added to the already bloated pension list of the United States.

Further, Congress remitted taxes on to-bacco and sugar, and so lost a large block of revenue. Again, they got rid of a certain windfall connected with the banking system worth over £10,000,000. Taking everything into account. Mr. Wilson calculates that the Fity-first Congress made ducks and drakes of about £70,000,000. Remember that for the bulk of this money there is literally nothing to show—no ships, no forts, no military equipments, none of the great public works on which most extravagant nations spend their money. It was simply thrown away, and as ar as the pensions are concerned the waste was entailed for the next twenty or thirty years. The net result is that, whereas in 1889 the United States had a surplus of £21,000,000, it has now a deficit of £15,000,000, and a tariff so burdensome that its weight is felt in every household and on every article of consumption.

At first sight, the Republican manage-tion.

At first sight, the Republican management of the finances of the Union seems a huge fiasco. If, however, we consider it from the point of view of those who de signed it, it will be seen to be a great success. The resources of the Nation were deliberately squandered by the Harrison administration, in order to create a breastwork of deficit which should defend the tariff. The protectionists may say with prides. tariff. The protectionists may say with pridet "We determined to create a substantial deficit, and in spite of every sort of difficulty, we succeeded."

deficit, and in spite of every sort of difficulty, we succeeded."

There is no denying this success. If the Treasury had been solvent, the party of tariff reform might at once have tackled the Mekinley act in earnest. As it is, they fight with one hand tied. They can not, when there is a deficit of £15,600,000, propose to reduce the revenue still further. All that they can do, is to loosen the weight of the tariif at the places where it galls most, and hope for better times. Meantime, the Treasury is occupied with the homely though difficult task of paying its way. Instead of its energies being devoted to reducing the debt, it is actually contemplating an issue of £50,000,000 to enable it to regularize its position and leave it solvent. If any one in 1889 had predicted that this would be the state of things in 1894, and that it would be reached, not by a reduction in taxation, but after an increase of the tariff without parafter an increase of the tariff without par-allel in history, he would have been re-garded as a lunatic. Yet this is what has happened.

How Mr. Cleveland and his Ministry will
How Mr. Cleveland and his Ministry will
How Mr. Cleveland and his Ministry will How Mr. Cleveland and his Ministry will be able to talse the necessary £15,000,000 remains to be seen. Mr. Wilson's bill contains a clause imposing a tax "upon individual incomes and corporate, investments." The income tax will, it is said, be a tax of 2 per cent. on all incomes over $4,000, that is £800 a year. It is calculated that only $5,000 persons will be liable to pay this fax. In all probability, however, the House of Representatives will not agree to the proposal without great modifications. Americans are not fond of direct taxation, which, in a country where people are too busy to stand up for their rights, means oppression for those not rich enough to bribe. If the proposed income tax fails, it is difficult to see whence the requisite supplies can be obtained.

'If, however, the American people are still in earnest about free trade, these difficulties will all be surmounted. The question is, Has not their anti-protectionist real somewhat abased? If it has, then Mr. Wilson's bill will be killed by the Senate. If, on the other hand, public opinion is still strong for tariff reform, tariff reform there will be. We can only wait and watch, admiring meantime the splendid imperturbality of a people who have allowed $70,000,000 of their money to be wasted without getting in the least exerted about it. The cranks talk of impeaching President Cleveland over the Sandwich islands affair; but not the crankiest crank in the States would think it reasonable to impeach General Harrison for having allowed the national resources to be poured out like

ADVANCED PAYMENT STOCK. Decision Of a New York Court On the Subject.

Officers of building associations in this city have received notice of a decision of interest to thousands of holders of advanced payment stock in building associations. It omes from New York. It establishes the legality of such stock.

Recently the superintendent of the banking department of New York refused to approve and file a certificate of incorporation of a building and loan association as requested by the president, Charles S. Fairchild, ex-assistant Treasurer of the United States. States. The ground of the superintendent's refusal was that the certificate provided for three kinds of stock—installment, vided for three kinds of stock—installment, prepaid and income, his claim being that such corporation could have only installment stock, to be paid for in installments. Mr. Fairchild then sought by mandamus to compel the superintendent to approve the certificate, and the Court of Appeals held that the certificate should be opposed. The opinion was handed down a few days ago. Many States, including Indiana, have similar statutes. The Indiana law provides that "installments on stock shall be as the bylaws may provide, but no periodical payment of such installment shall be required exceeding 50 cents per week on each $100 of exceeding 50 cents per week on each $100 of stock." The Court of Appeals in its opinion says there is no requirement in the New York law that the stock of such corporation shall be paid for in installments from time to time as they fall due, but that if the corporation did not provide in its certificates for the payment of weekly or monthly dues then it would thwart the purpose of the

The New York association desired to The New York association desired to issue prepaid stock at $50 a share and income stock at $60 a share, on which dividends of 6 per cent, in cash were paid semi-annually. The court says: "It is impossible for us to perceive how this scheme violates the law or any public policy. It does not prevent equality or mutuality among the members. Money must come into the treasury of one of these corporations from small, monthly dues very slowly, and members desiring to borrow the money for the purchase or improvement of homes members desiring to borrow the money for the purchase or improvement of homes must wait a long time before they can be accommodated with loans from money thus contributed; but if prepayment of dues is permitted, the ability of the cor-poration to aid its members by loans is greatly facilitated and the main purpose of the corporation is thus promoted."
The Court further says, in speaking of the payment of dividends: "What harm can come from the creation of such stock? can come from the creation of such stock?
It allows a member who has money enough to pay his dues for ten years in advance, and why is this not wise policy? He has no advantage over holders of installment stock. Their dividends are applied to carry their stock to maturity, and they thus have the same henefit that and they thus have the same benefit that they would have if the dividends were first paid to them and then by them paid on their stock."

The opinion, attorneys say, rests on broad grounds, and ignoring technicalities, it will be practically decisive of the question. It is from a court of last resort in New York, and highly respected for its decisions. It had been held in England prior to the act of 1874, which authorizes the issue of prepaid stock, that such stock was legal. This paid stock, that such stock was legal. This decision by the House of Lords is cited in the New York case.

JOE MANLEY IS FOR REED.

THE NEW REPUBLICAN CHAIR-MAN DEFINES HIS ATTITUDE.

He Favors the Ex-Speaker For President, But Is Not In the "Booming" Business-The Plans of the National Committee.

"The Republican party, fortunately, has many men worthy of the great office of President, and it will unquestionably have many candidates in the next national convention. General Alger of Michigan, Senator Cullom of Illinois, Robert T. Lincoln of Illinois, Governor McKinley of Ohio, and Mr. Reed of Maine, are already spoken of, and each man has his own warm adherents.

Thus spoke Joe Manley, the newly elected chairman of the Republican National Executive Committee, to a reporter for the Boston Globe, when asked whether or not he was engaged in working up a boom for Tom Reed for President in 1896. Mr. Manley spoke at considerable length as to the duties of the office to which ne had been elected recently and the outlook for the Republicans at the next election. While Mr. Manley personally favors Mr. Reed's nomination, he emphatically asserted that as chairman of the executive committee he did not propose to betray the trust committed to him and use the position of chairman of the committee to boom Mr. Reed's candidacy or any other man's candi-

"The committee's powers are purely executive," he said. "It is not its duty to formulate platforms for the party, but to carry out the plans which the party lays down in its national convention. It would be very indelicate for members of the committee to become partisans in favor of any mittee to become partisans in layor of any one candidate as against another, because they might be called upon to manage the campaign of some candidate whose nomination they had not favored.

"There is perfect harmony," Mr. Manley continued, "among all the members of the executive committee as to their duties in this respect. They desire to obey the will of the party and not to thwart it, and they will be very careful in carrying out what they believe to be the wishes of the party."

Speaking of the establishment of national headquarters for the committee Mr. Man. Speaking of the establishment of national headquarters for the committee, Mr. Manley said: "I do not think the committee need be in any hurry about this matter. The Democratic party seems to be doing very effective work for the Republicans just now, and if they continue it may not be necessary for the Republicans to do any work whatever. It should be remembered that the Republican congressional committee has been apnointed and has established headquarters at Washington, and it will be their especial duty to conduct the campaign in the congressional districts throughout the country in November next; therefore, it may not be wise for the national committee to establish wise for the national committee to establish their headquarters until this work be com-pleted, but the national committee will assist the congressional committee in their ampaign and render them every service in their power.

'Headquarters will not be established," Mr. Manley went on, "until after leading Republicans in various sections of the country shall have been consulted upon the matter, and until the committee ascertain that there is a public sentiment demanding the establishment of headquarters; and then the next question is where shall they be established—in Washington or New York? There are strong claims in favor of both cities. The extreme Western men would prefer Washington. Prominent Republicans will also be consulted as to the location and a consensus of opinion arrived at if possible.

"I do not believe in 'bossism,' but I am a firm believer in trying to find out what the majority of the active, prominent and in-fluential men in the party want and then carrying their wishes into effect.

THE QUESTION OF REPRESENTATION. "One question the national committee is oing to consider, which has been brought to its attention and which will be considered by the full committee before the next national convention is called, is the question of representation. There has been a grow-ing feeling all over the country that the representation should be changed in our Republican conventions.

"Of course, it impossible for the committee to call a convention not recognizing State and congressional district representation, but the plan proposed is that each State shall have two delegates at large, that each congressional district shall have one delegate and that each congressional district shall have one each congressional district shall have one delegate, and that each congressional district which cast 7,000 Republican votes at the presidential electron in 1892 shall have an additional delegate, and for every additional 7,000 votes east and a fraction thereof, allowing in addition the District of Columbia and each Territory to have one delegate.

"This would form a convention having the State and district idea of representation, the State and district idea of representation." and at the same time give each congressional district which is strongly Republican more representation in the convention than the district which throws few, if any Republican votes. This is not aimed at the South, but would hit every congressional district where there are few Republican votes. It would it is conceded, reduce the representation from the Southern States and increase ation from the Southern States and increase the representation of such strong Republican States as Pennsylvania, Ohio, Massachusetts, Vermont and Maine.

"The committee hope that this question of representation will be taken up by the Republican newspapers and thoroughly discussed, so that they may learn the true public opinion upon this question, and thus have something to guide them in their deliberations. I do not think it will be questioned that the national committee have the right to adopt this plan, and that the convention would respect a call based upon it." upon it.

Baldwin On the Tariff Bill. Daniel P. Baldwin, of Logansport, spoke before the Progress Club yesterday after-noon on the Wilson tariff bill. He said the hill was an honest effort to equalize public burdens: that it divided the burden of Federal taxation between the consumer, who, under the McKinley bill, paid all, and the capitalist, by a supplemental bill, providing for an income tax. It still left an average duty of 42 per cent. for the benefit of manufacturers, a higher duty than during the war when the expenses of the Government were about $1,000,000 a day. He said if the manufacturers could not thrive with 42 per cent. protection then they had better quit business.

THE BELLE-STREET SEWER.

Mr. Claypool Protests Against Its Con-struction. To the Editor of The Indianapolis News:

So much has appeared in the city press in regard to the Belle-street sewer matter calculated to prejudice the interests of those who oppose this work that I deem it not inappropriate, having been made the chief target of attack, to ask through the same medium a brier rep'y.

oppose this work that I deem it not inappropriate, having been made the chief target of attack, to ask through the same medium a brier rep'y.

The Belle-street sewer is only to be a floodwater drain, designed to help carry off water coming from the northeast territory beyond the city limits and flowing into the State ditch. It is a sewer that, when constructed, should be paid for by a large territory—all the territory now included in the State ditch district, and a much larger one lying north of the present sitself; what territory could now be assessed for the construction of this immense drain, which would cost $155,800 or more?

There is very grave doubt whether the property now being assessed for the Fourteenth-street sewer can be assessed for the Bellestreet sewer, and it is well known that such an assessment would be resisted in the courts; it is absolutely certain that the territory lying beyond the city limits can not be assessed for the Bellestreet sewer would be resisted in the contra; the construction of this sewer; and it follows that the only territory the Board of Public Works could assess without question for the Bellestreet sewer would be the property along the line of the sewer and in the immediate neighborhood thereof, the aggregate value of which would not more than pay for the sewer. To be exact, the assessment would be according to ex-City Engineer Mansfield, $470 per acre, which is more than the value of land in that locality at this time.

If it appears desirable to construct the Belle-street sewer, or one therenbouts, at the present time—a proposition that is by no means conceded by the principal owners of property in that locality for numerous reasons—then the City Council should annex all the land north of the city limits that would be benefited by the construction of the sewer under existing circumstances, chiefly because, as has been shown, the Board of Public Works can only assess a limited territory for its construction, and the property shelter to assessment would hardly pay for th pally interested in this matter in a financial way are opposed to it.

The injunction suit brought by Robert Martindale to restrain further work on the State ditch sewer has no further purpose in view than to brighten the Board of Public Works into adopting his notions in regard to the Belle-street sewer. All the talk about testing the questions involved in this matter by a "friendly lawsuit," is sheer nonsense. If the matter has to go to the courts for solution, it will go there in a legitimate win. One thing may be set down as certain, that is, I shall not stand idly by and see my property confacated to appease public diamor or private greed.

While it is true the city employed Mr. Rudolph Hering as an expert to plan a sewer system for the city, it was not intended that all the sewers outlined by him should be constructed in one year without regard to private rights. The intention was rather to have an intelligent plan of operation devised which could be carried out as circumstances would justify—not crammed down the throats of the people like a hot potato. It is private greed rather than public good that is at the bottom of all this agitation about the Belle-street sewer. It is the effort of one individual to force his neighbors to drain his swamp at their expense.

I am the owner of a very valuable dog. On Monday morning I found that he had been shot in the side, the bullet making a severe and exceedingly dangerous wound. If the originator of this deed could but see this poor brute, with his large, kind eyes mutely expressing the agony he suffers. If think he would feel as though he had succeeded in being the death of a poor, inoffensive brute; perhaps he would also have a little sympathy, if the perpetrator of such an atrocious and cowardly deed could possess such humans qualities.

owardly deed could possess such humane qualities.

The poor fellow was shot twice by boys with those little harmless air and flobert rifles, for mere fun as they said. Then when receiving this third wound I concluded to protest, not only for myself, but for many others who have suffered unjust and cowardly acts of a similar nature.

There should most assuredly be a fine or some penalty attached for carrying such weapons in the city limits, if not altogether abolish the right to carry them. Not only dogs suffer, but chickens, birds, pigeons, cats and in fact anything that would make a good target for these harmless little rifles. But when such creatures suffer from the hands of a spiteful and revengeful neighbor, that neighber should suffer the full extent of the law, when detected.

With the hope that some action will be taken by the authorities in this matter, I remain, with my cruelly-afflicted friend Rover, George V. Hess.

[There is, we believe, a city ordinance forbidding the use of these "harmless little rifles" of all kinds. They are indeed most mischievous and dangerous. Severe injuries have been inflicted upon people by them. The law forbidding them ought to be enforced. An example or two would do the work.—Editor The Nigws.]

PLYMOUTH'S ANNIVERSARY.

THE CHURCH CELEBRATES THE EVENT-SPECIAL SERVICES.

Copies of Mr. McCulloch's Sermon on "Abundant Life" Distributed-Addresses By Dr. Runnels and Miss Taylor-The Sermon.

Special services were held at Plymouth church yesterday to celebrate the tenth an-niversary. The platform was decorated with palms and evergreens. New pulpit chairs had been presented by the ladies of the congregation. A portrait of the late Oscar McCulloch was in a prominent place. After a special song service by the choir and the reading of the scripture, the pas-tor, the Rev. F. E. Dewhurst, distributed to the pupils of the Sunday-school copies of the sermon on "Abundant Life," preached by Mr. McCulloch at the opening of the church in January, 1884. Copies of the sermon were also distributed to the members of the congregation after the service.

bers of the congregation after the service.

Upon the subject, "Memories of Plymouth Church and Plymouth Institute, 1884-1894," addresses were made by Dr. O. S. Runnels and Miss Emma Taylor. Dr. Runnels said that it was seventeen years ago that Plymouth church had been born into a new life. He referred to the work of Oscar McCulloch, and particularly to his inaugural sermon on "Accidents." Dr. Runnels said that it was the ambition of Mr. McCulloch to have a church of Christ. Everybody that felt the need of a Savior Everybody that felt the need of a Savior was welcome. He did not believe in asking a person who was seeking salvation a lot of useless questions. The past of a man did not matter—it was his future that the church could influence. Miss Emma Taylor spoke of the work of Plymouth Institute during the last ten years, and of the various classes that have been carried on where the masses could obtain higher education. She also referred to the university extension lectures which were being held in the lecture-room of the institute.

The Rev. F. E. Dewhurst was announced to speak on "A Look Ahead." He took for his text the words of Paul, "I seek not yours, but you." He said that Plymouth church was in the march of progress, and was prepared to "rise on stepping-stones of our dead selves to higher things." He

our dead selves to higher things." He said:

It has been a joy and a gratification to us all to-day to take up these memories and experiences of the past ten years. Much that was prophecy, desire and expectation ten years ago has become history, has become life, and is written in the living tables of many hearts that have been touched by the influences that have gone forth from this place. So rapidly do events move on, so swiftly has much of the social and religious thinking become transformed, that some of the methods proposed for this church ten years ago and which had about them the impression of novelty, are now almost commonplace in the thought and method of many churches throughout the land. What was regarded then as novel perhaps to the point of doubtful expediency is at last eagerly copied and imitated, reminding one of Tennyson's fable of the flower:

"Most can raise the flowers now,

"Most can raise the flowers now, For all have got the seed."

But I am sure that if the voice which ten years ago spoke to you the message of abundant life could speak audibly to you to-day, it would be in the spirit of Moses's words to the people of Israel: "Go forward."

He quoted from the sermon on "Abundant He quoted from the sermon on "Abundant Life," in which the work of the church was outlined, and he showed that the line proposed by Mr. McCulloch had been closely followed. He said that another decade ought to see an ampier fulfillment of the prophecy contained in that sermon. In conclusion he draw a parallel between the making of the new Liberty Bell and the making of the new Plymouth church. He showed how people from far and near had sent jewels and cold and silver of historic value to be cast into the bell. He showed that when the bell was cast it gave out a clear, ringing tone. It spoke with no uncertain voice. So it was with Plymouth church. He said:

Into the common life and the common weal

church. He said:

Into the common life and the common weal we each cast that which we have, that which it precious to us. One brings of his knowledge, one brings to his weaith, one brings of his counsel, another of his good cheer. It is all cast into the one mold of the church and from the common gifts there comes forth a life resonagt and melodious with all that has gone into ft. It peals corth and proclaims the coming day, the day of peace on earth and among men in whom God is well pleased.

At the evening service a specual feature was made of the music. A number of solos were sung, the most notable of which was "He Shall Feed His Flock Like a Shepherd" (from Handel's Messiah) by Mrs. O. M. Hudelson.

H. P. WASSON

Y. M. C. A. ANNIVERSARY. Addresses By President Scot Butler

and the Rev. J. W. Hansell.

The fiftieth anniversary of the organiza tion of the Young Men's Christian Association was observed at St. Paul's cathedral last night. The congregation was large and the interest in the occasion manifest. Two addresses were delivered, one by Scot Butler, president of Butler University, and the other by the Rev. J. W. Hansell, principal of the Young Men's Christian Association training school at Chicago. President Butler spoke of individuality and its cultivation as a means to more perfect Christianity. The progress to more perfect Christianity. The progress of the world had been to recognize individuality more, and relation to position, social or political, less. The man, and not the sphere, was now the consideration. Political and social prestige were not now predominant. Individuality did not mean selfishness, tor in the denial of self and the consequent expansion of the heart was the true end of life attained. The highest good depended upon harmonious relations with society. The inspiration of marching to the music that spiration of marching to the music that kept in step a thousand others was grand; the voice lifted for the right was always approved by a thousand others and should orted by a thousand others and the voice litted for the right was always supported by a thousand others and should be fearless. He concluded:

Young man, somewhere in life's wide sea there sleeps for thee the current of God's purpose. Leave dalliance and seek the deeper waters, and when thou shalt feel the pull of secret forces square shoulders, brave swimmer, and strike out.

The Rev. J. W. Hansell spoke of the growth of the organization since 1844, when it was founded by George W. Williams. During the first two decades it accomplished little, but after the war in the counsel of Bishop Potter, of New York, the organization found new life and developed into a numerical strength beyond the anticipation of its promoters. There were then twenty-five associations, with 15,000 members; now there are 1,439 associations, with 245,000 members, and 428 college associations, with 27,000 members.

ciations, with 27,000 members. QUEBEC'S ICE CARNIVAL.

A Week of Fun and Frolic-Statues

Noted Men In Ice. QUEBEC, January 29 .- The annual grand ice carnival opened to-day, and for a week this historic city will be full of fun and frolic. The hotels and boarding-houses are crowded with strangers, and the event promises to be the most successful in the history of Canada's winter carnivals. This year the ice palace gives way to an ice fortress on the old walls that were so unsuccessfully assaulted by General Montgemery in 1775, and a monument in ice to the noted commander, which is a fac-simile of the one in front of St. Paul's church in New York, has been erected on the spot where his body rested for forty years before its removal to the metropolis of the States. The carnival began at 9 o'clock this morning with the first match of the curling bon-spiel in the skating rink. It was open to the world and there were a large number of contestants. The bonspiel will continue throughout the day and evening, and the final competitions will be played of during the week on the rinks off the local clubs. The ice fortress was form-ally opened at 2 o'clock this after-noon, the chief feature of the exercises being an address by His Excellency, Lord Aberdeen, Governor-General of Canada. A number of historical statues in ice were also unveiled. An immense throng participated in the exercise and the Governor-General was accorded an enthusiastic welcome.

The other events of this atternoon and evening included the opening of the bowling tournament at the club-house of St. Roche's Athletic Association, a 5 o'clock tea at the Quebec rink, a pyroteehnic display at Levis, opposite Quebec, and an illumina-tion of the Citadel House and Dufferin Ter-race and the opening of the Aberdeen slide on the Quebec Athletic grounds.

TEXAS NEGROES FRIGHTENED. They are Ordered to Leave Their Homes on Penalty of Death.

CADDO MILLS, Tex., January 29. nonth ago every negro in this neighborhood received an anonymous letter warning him that unless he left the locality by sundown of to-night he would be shot. The leters assigned as a reason for this course that this was a white man's country, and that negroes would not be permitted longer to remain in it. As a result, whole families of colored people, many of them old settlers and owning property, have temporarily left the neighborhood. A number, however, left the neighborhood. A number, nowever, remain, and the business men and others by whom they are employed have armed themselves, and declare that they will protect the proposed victims against either mobs or ambush assussination. The negroes that have disregarded the anonymous notice, however, are thoroughly frightened, and nany of them refuse to step out of doors.

To the Editor of The Indianapolis News To the Editor of The Indianapolis News:

It is quite certain that the property-owners in Indianapolis are largely in tavor of good streets and that they shall be made in a permanent manner and as rapidly as possible. But while this seeling prevalls, there are many who, while not openly opposing such improvements, are firmly convinced that the prices heretofore charged for asphalt pavements are much too high, and are greater than are charged in other cities where competition exists, and where equally as good materials are used.

exists, and where equally as good materials are used.

It was probably a mistake of our Board of Public Works that the specifications or such work require that Trinidad asphalt—and a certain kind of Trinidad asphalt—must be rurnished. This, too, at a time when it was openly charged that this particular kind of asphalt was controlled by a trust, and could be purchased by only one firm or company operating in any one city. I do not assert that this charge is true, but, having been made, the board should have hesitated in requiring all bids to specify that particular kind of asphalt. There is no guarantee on any of our streets for a longer time than five years, and any company that can furnish approved bond for that time should certainly be permitted to compete for work.

But the important thing in the putting down of miles of payement is the cost. It is a hardship, not only upon a few, but upon a majority

But the important thing in the putting down of miles of payement is the cost. It is a hardship, not only upon a few, but upon a majority of property-owners upon the ordinary residence streets, to be put to an expense of irom eight to twelve dollars a front foot for the paving of a street.

A special dispatch in The News of the 27th from Washington states that asphalt paving in that city is just down for $2.25 a square yard, and that in Detroit competition has reduced the price to $2.10. This is much less than is charged in this city. On Illinois street, from New York to St. Clair, the contract price was $3.95 a lineal foot on each sue, or $19.92 a lineal foot for a street fifty feet in width. This makes a cost of $2.60 a square yard, which is $1.35 a square yard more than in Detroit. This is the cost on the property irontage.

If to this be added the expense of paving the street and alley crossings, the cost to the property on the corner of two streets is brought up to $11.65 for each foot of the irontage on each side of the street, or counting the square yards or the frontage it taxes that frontage $4.20 a square yard.

This price seems exorbitant. At any rate it must be admitted that the expense one and in many cases a burdensome and distressing one.

With the facts now before them as to the

and in many cases a burdensome and distressing one.

With the facts now before them as to the cost of the best kind of asphalt pavements in other cities, the duty of the Board of Public Works seems plain. The specifications for such work should be so made as to invite the greatest possible competition. It should be made known by publication in leading papers of other cities that a large amount of this kind of work is to be done here, to the end that the best and lowest possible bids may be secured from those who can and will do good work. It is well known that The News is in favor of good streets and many of them. I am sure The News will favor the giving of contracts to any bidder who will do good work at the lowest possible price. We need the streets, the people generally are willing to pay for them, but they have a right to expect, and should earnestly demand, that they be put down here at a price as low as prevails in them, but they have a right to expect, and should earnestly demand, that they be put down here at a price as low as prevails in other cities where the conditions are not more favorable.

[The gentleman is not well informed. If we are going to have asphalt pavement, we should have asphalt pavement, not pavement made of some sort of asphalt that is "just as good as" real asphalt. If we are going to have brick pavement, we should have genuine, hard-burned brick, not sonie other kind of brick "just as good as" the proper kind. The gentleman is also mistaken in saying that there is no competition in the laying of asphalt pavements. He can compete himself if he wants to. He can buy the asphalt just as cheaply as either of the two companies that are here buy it. Pitch lake asphalt is asmonoobly in that it is owned by one company. But that company will sell it to reputable people anywhere at the same price. Any responsible man or firm can buy it and go into the business of laying pavement. We know nothing about the relative figures given above, but we believe that there is some mistake. In other words, we do not believe that Washington City is putting down the same kind of pavement at $2.25 a square yard that take. In other words, we do not believe that Washington City is putting down the same kind of pavement at $2.25 a square yard that we are paying $4.20 ior. We venture to say that the figures are wrong. The News is heartily in invorof good streets at the lowest price and world-wide competition in making them. But as we know that the gentleman has spoken without knowledge as to competition in asphalt it is not improbable that he has spoken in the same way as to the price.—Editor The News.]
